Traffic Management Opportunities are Speeding YOUR WAY

Are You One of the Lucky Men in a Position To Grasp and Profit by These Opportunities?

What Men Can Best Capitalize On This Training?

Shipping clerks, traffic clerks, rate clerks, railroad agents, truck operators, steamship men, solicitors, traffic managers . . . in fact, anyone in the field of transportation who really wants a better job with more money. Executives, too, will find it valuable, if their jobs have tied them down too closely to permit keeping up with modern methods.

YOU'RE mighty lucky if you're a traffic man these days. Even a beginner. You've got a great chance—far better than most—to get a bigger job . . . draw a bigger pay-check.

So important, so expanding is this field of Traffic Management that many concerns simply can't find trained men to help them out.

And that's where you come in. If you have the ambition to get ahead . . . and the backbone to spend a few hours in study each week . . . you may easily get a one-way ticket to a responsible, worthwhile position.

For modern business knows that expert Traffic Management increases efficiency and reduces costs. Many vital changes in both the legislation and equipment affecting transportation are constantly taking place . . . speedy streamlined trains are cutting hours off runs . . . freight schedules are being speeded up . . . trucks are being used for hauling because they do away with double loading . . . even air-lines are cutting in for a fair share of transport business. Changing methods of distribution are making transportation the very life-blood of trade.

And that's why so many business firms badly need trained traffic men—why they are willing to pay from $3,000 to $7,000 salary per year for them—or even more!

What are you going to do about it—about getting the better job you want in this new age of Traffic Management? Of course, you could depend on years of experience to pull you through . . . yet, by itself, even that might not work. New methods and ideas in transportation might tear down in months all you could learn in years. No, there isn't time for long routes provided there's a short cut at hand.

Is there a short cut? Yes! There is one nationally recognized method whereby you can train yourself . . . in a practical way . . . in a fascinating way . . . without waste of time, effort, or money. That way is through LaSalle's Problem Method of traffic study—right in your own home.

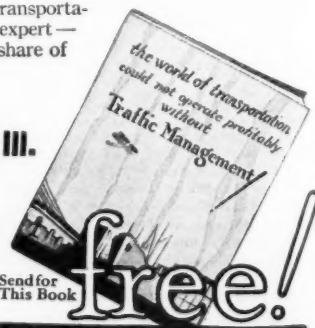

By the Problem Method you learn to think as a traffic executive thinks. You learn the basic principles, but, what's most important, you use them—constantly. You're given problems you are certain to meet . . . and you learn to solve them correctly—profitably. As you can see, the training is thorough . . . and so practical that by the time you complete it you'll be fitted for the jobs that pay really good money.

Complete, boiled down, expert—this training has been moulded by 175 top-notch executives in the field . . . men who have spent years on the firing line . . . men who already know all that you need to know!

And when you're a LaSalle man, you can go into the traffic world with confidence—knowing you can handle the job you've always wanted—knowing that, like thousands of LaSalle men all over the country, you'll succeed.

Write for this Booklet — It's Free

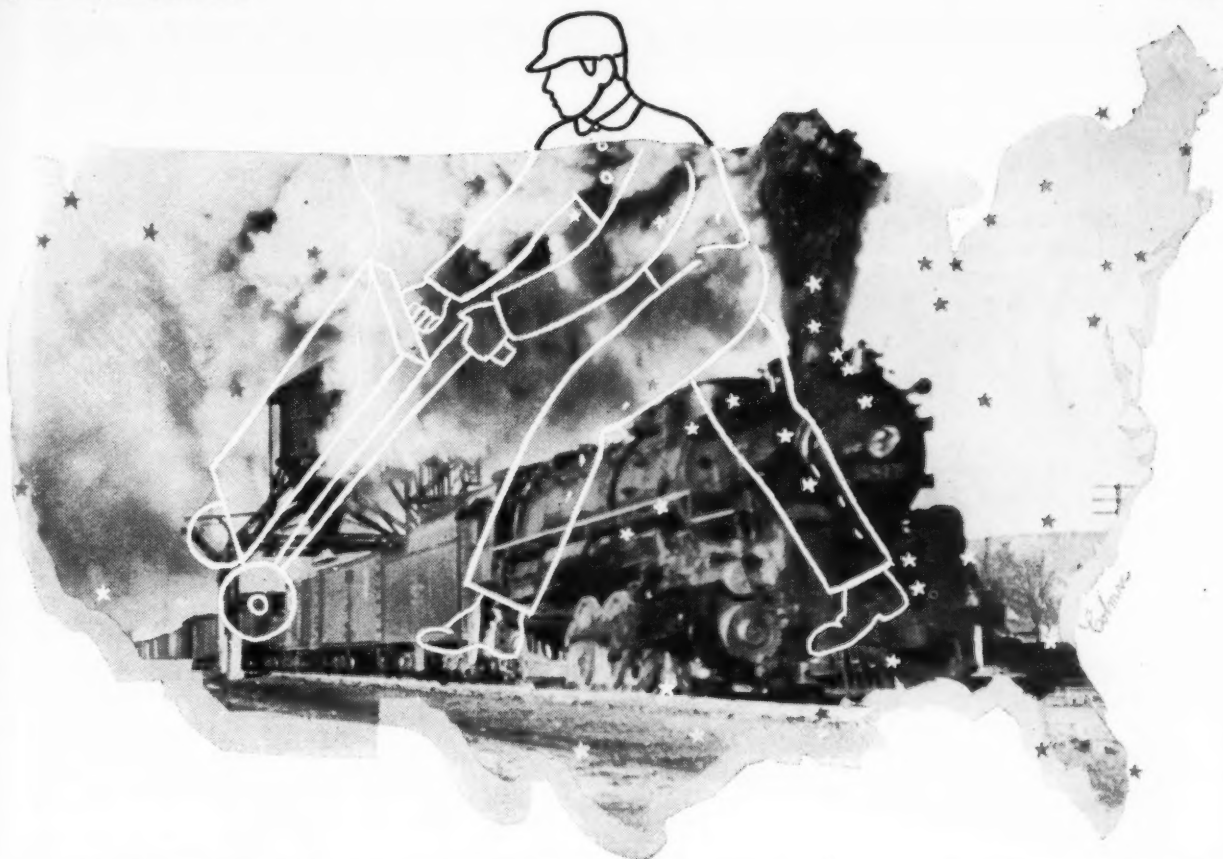

If you think you have the stuff it takes to hold down a real traffic position . . . if you feel you can stick with the training and prepare yourself for such a position . . . then get all the facts. You'll find them in our remarkably interesting free 64-page booklet on Traffic Management. Write for it today. Once you discover just what the transportation field has to offer an expert—you'll want to get your own share of its opportunities.

LASALLE EXTENSION, Dept. 162-TR, Chicago, Ill.

Please send me, free of all cost or obligation, your 64-page illustrated book, "The World of Transportation Could Not Operate Profitably Without Traffic Management," and the facts about your training for success in that field.

Just Foolishness

From the London, England, Sphere

The United States contains 6 per cent of the world's area and 7 per cent of its population. It normally consumes 48 per cent of the world's coffee, 53 per cent of its tin, 56 per cent of its rubber, 21 per cent of its sugar, 72 per cent of its silk, 36 per cent of its coal, 42 per cent of its pig iron, 47 per cent of its copper and 69 per cent of its crude petroleum.

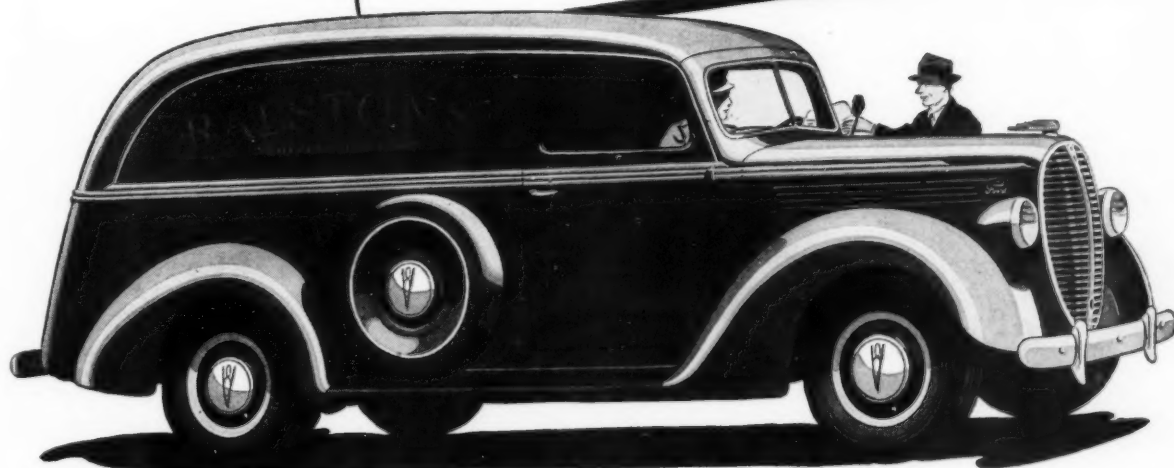

The United States operates 60 per cent of the world's telephone and telegraph facilities, owns 80 per cent of the motor cars in use, operates 33 per cent of the railroads. It produces 70 per cent of the oil, 60 per cent of the wheat and cotton, 50 per cent of the copper and pig iron and 40 per cent of the lead and coal output of the globe.

The United States possesses almost $11,000,000,000 in gold, or nearly half of the world's monetary metal. It has two-thirds of civilization's banking resources. The purchasing power of the population is greater than that of the 500,000,000 people in Europe and much larger than that of the more than a billion Asiatics.

Responsible leadership which can not translate such a bulging economy into assured prosperity is destitute of capacity. But pompous statesmen, looking over the estate, solemnly declare that the methods by which it was created are all wrong, ought to be abandoned, must be discarded, that the time has come to substitute political management for individual initiative and supervision.

There's only one way to characterize that proposal—it is just damn foolishness.

New One-Tonner BRINGS FORD V-8 ECONOMY TO ONE-TON RANGE

Many operators of hauling and delivery units have asked Ford to build a unit that would handle one-ton loads with the same proved performance and economy that Ford V-8 units of larger and smaller capacities bring to their respective fields. Result: The new Ford V-8 One-Tonner.

The One-Tonner has a 122-inch wheelbase. It has been designed to take advantage of the unusually economical 60-hp. V-8 engine, although the 85-hp. V-8 is also available where higher speed and faster acceleration are desired.

Though low in price, the One-Tonner has the time-proved features that make the larger Ford V-8 Trucks so reliable. Frame, springs and axles are designed for high reserve strength, without penalizing economy with excess weight.

Visit the nearest Ford dealer and arrange for an "on-the-job" test with your own loads and your own driver. While there, you will also see the new 1938 Ford V-8 134-inch and 157-inch wheelbase Trucks and the new 112-inch Commercial Cars—the finest, best looking units in all Ford history.

New Features of 1938 Ford V-8 Trucks

New styling • More comfortable cabs, more head room, new interior trim, softer seats • Quicker stopping brakes • New 134-inch wheelbase, improved load distribution • For 134 and 157 inch trucks, new standard frame width • Larger spindles • Easier steering, roller type with 18-inch wheel • TIME-PROVED FORD TRUCK FEATURES: V-8 engines, 85 and 60 hp. • Full-floating rear axle with tapered roller bearings • Straddle-mounted pinion, ring-gear thrust plate • Centri-Force Clutch, low pedal pressure, high torque capacity • Needle roller bearing universal joints on 134 and 157 inch trucks • Full torque-tube and radius-rod drive, free-shackled springs • Ford Engine and Parts Exchange Plan.

HOW WAREHOUSES GET MORE BUSINESS

Your customers are vitally interested in the measures you employ to safeguard their goods against fire, water and burglary losses. That is why you find so many warehouses advertising their A.D.T. protection. It is a strong selling argument! ★ Reproduced above are the names of just a few of the many warehouses throughout the country that feature A.D.T. protection services in their advertising in D. and W. and other publications ★ But helping warehouses to sell is only a by-product of A.D.T. service. Fundamentally it provides the utmost protection against loss or damage to other people's property—of which the warehouse is custodian. A.D.T. protection guards against the far-reaching consequences which can result from property loss, and which may drive a warehouse as far as the bankruptcy courts.

A.D.T. PROTECTION SERVICES INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING:

★ AERO AUTOMATIC FIRE ALARM, which automatically detects fire WHEN IT STARTS, and automatically summons the fire department.

★ SPRINKLER SUPERVISORY AND WATERFLOW ALARM, which maintains a constant electrical check on shut-off valves and other vital parts of the sprinkler system and makes the sprinkler function as an automatic fire alarm, summoning the fire department the instant a sprinkler head opens or a serious leak occurs.

★ WATCHMAN SUPERVISORY AND MANUAL FIRE ALARM, which provides an automatic check on the watchman's patrols and automatically summons help should the watchman fail—for any reason—to make his scheduled rounds. Also provides fire alarm boxes for manual operation.

★ BURGLAR AND HOLDUP ALARM, to obtain immediate response of A.D.T. guards and the police, in case of attack by burglars or bandits.

THE 15 PER CENT INCREASE

THAT'S the figure on the mind of everyone—the railroads, trucks, water transportation lines and all regulated carriers WHO EXPECT TO GET IT; the shippers everywhere WHO ARE EXPECTED TO PAY IT; and Johnny Q. Public IS GOING TO ABSORB IT AS IS USUAL.

This 15 per cent cure for all transportation ailments undoubtedly will be granted to rail lines, and, correspondingly, other regulated carriers will secure an equal increase.

Large shippers everywhere, we understand, are supporting the movement for a quick adjustment so that business can get going. Naturally, both raw and finished articles will be affected and quotations and production schedules can only be made with a question mark after the figures until the matter is definitely settled.

Every line of business, as well as labor, is prosperous when transportation does well, so let's give those in the transportation field an opportunity to demonstrate their ability to make business better by paying a little more for their services.

A RECORD-BREAKING YEAR

1937 goes down in history as a record-breaker in amount of tonnage handled by water, particularly inland waterways and Great Lakes areas.

In addition to the large sums spent on public works, many new ships have been constructed and improved terminals erected.

The New Year will see still further use of water for transportation particularly in view of the prospective increase in rail rates. This should not interfere with further progress of the rail carriers and a closer working agreement between rail and water carriers in many localities. With this country back into its normal stride, there is sufficient tonnage for all carriers.

COLD STORAGE LAWS

THE quick-freezing industry, that fast-striding adjunct of the cold storage field, has progressed to the point in its storage requirements where it must consider seriously the storage time restrictions in the laws of the various States where cold storage acts have been enacted.

Quick-frozen foods, when properly stored, can be kept in storage without deteriorating for an indefinite time. Dehydration is about the only thing that could happen and that is merely a matter of loss in moisture.

Under the Federal Uniform Cold Storage Act, the time limit for storage is 12 mos. and this may be extended but not longer than 120 days. In some of the States where cold storage laws exist, time limits for keeping perishable foods in storage are as low as 9 mos.

Such restrictions should be revised and need to be if the frozen-food industry is to be given the full opportunity it desires for placing fuller stocks in the public warehouses. Under the present restrictions, quick-freezing companies are forced to limit their holdings far below what would normally obtain were they allowed wider freedom for storing large quantities of prepared foods bought far in advance of the market. Such wholesale quantities must now be held in the freezing plants at point of production.

Considerable headway has been made since 1910 when the States first started enacting cold storage laws. Drastic provisions have, across the ensuing years, been repealed or revised. It is hoped that forceful action will be taken to insure a change in

LOW INVENTORIES

GENERAL opinion seems to indicate that inventories have been worked off to a point where industry in general will have to take steps for restocking. Sentiment favors a rise in inventory rehabilitation by the end of January.

Much of the stock purchasing the first quarter of 1937 was predicated on an anticipation of price increases, strikes, etc. This caused businesses generally to load up far beyond needs. These excesses started to be worked off around the middle of December, possibly because of holiday demands. In certain lines, there was an acute shortage, due undoubtedly, to the desires of many companies for balanced relationship between cash and inventories in their annual financial statements. With this hurdle out of the way, it is expected that a period of restocking will be under way to put new life into the business body.

Though business has been justifiably puzzled by contradictory moves now being made in Washington, there is hope of a postponement, if not an abandonment, of further regulatory legislation, so that government and business may concentrate on a recovery drive. The defeat of the wage-hour bill in the house is heartening and if this is followed by the defeat of other measures delegating added economic power to the executive, there will be added justification for renewed confidence. This will mean a resumption of factory orders to supply the normal and natural requirements of consumers.

MIGRATION FOR SECURITY

IN the 10-yr. period ending in 1939, domestic movement of persons from one state to another in search of economic security is expected to double migration of the decade that preceded.

Such a movement is bound to develop new areas. Equally important is the fact that many of these people come from districts which produce for consumption to those districts whose products must be supplemented by staples brought in from other regions. This farm-to-city movement has a vital effect on distribution and warehousing services which are essential to urban communities.

The workers who now migrate across state lines are predominantly white Americans. Families appear to form a larger proportion of all migrant groups than formerly. This applies particularly to the people from the agricultural sections.

Interstate migrants are younger than the working population as a whole. The concentration of migrant workers between the ages of 20 and 45 makes them a highly employable group.

Migration falls characteristically into two main types; migration for permanent relocation in response to major economic changes such as industrialization, drought and depression; and continual migration from job to job in response to seasonal or irregular fluctuation in the demand for labor.

The relocation of workers across state lines affects more persons than does continual migration. More than 9,000,000 persons moved from one state to another or entered the country as foreign immigrants during the decade 1920 to 1929. More than half of these were domestic migrants.

Despite the fact that local relief and business recovery have tended to stabilize the population and to induce some migrants to return to their former places of residence, the floating population today in search of work appears to be greater than during the 1920's.

This mass movement, it is believed, will always be with us to serve as a continuing source of new business. Some authorities are convinced that this continuing movement of people is important enough to justify a real study, possibly legislation, to speed the assimilation of newcomers in the cities to which they go.

ADVERTISE WHAT'S WRONG

LET every American business institution that believes that the New Deal is headed in the wrong direction for a return to prosperity devote its regular advertising space for just 1 month to the job of telling the people some simple truths about business.

Such a procedure, according to Phil S. Hanna, commentator of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, would do more than anything else to rebut the inflammatory and misleading propaganda which has prepared such fertile ground for the economic nostrums sprouting today.

Such advertising should tell the workingman where the business sales dollar goes, how much goes for labor and how much for taxes; and if the business was in the red in recent years, tell him how much more money was paid out than was taken in and, most important, who benefited thereby.

Sell the everlasting truth to the workingman that if the government prevents business from laying up a nest egg in good years, it will be unable to provide employment in bad years.

Get the statistics of income as put out by the United States treasury and give the public the indisputable figures which show that private employers paid out—and mostly to labor—$34,000,000,000 plus in the 6 years 1930 to 1935, inclusive, more than was taken in. Show them that this was more than three times the amount spent by the government for relief employment. Point out that if the undistributed surplus tax law had been in effect in these past years, private employers would not have been able to provide that much money for jobs during the recent depression.

Also get the department of commerce report on national income and in the advertising space refute the statement that "5 per cent of the people own 95 per cent of the wealth." According to the government's report, 85 per cent of the national income in 1932 went to the gainfully employed.

These and a host of other simple truths, states Hanna, are available to the man in the street, if someone outside the government would only take the time to tell him. Certainly, the administration is not spreading these truths and probably is anxious to prevent a widespread understanding of same.

Business must be its own leader in effectively combating bad legislation, false thinking and false leadership. The least it can do is to rebut the untruths, the half truths, and all of the misleading information that has been spread so effectively.

The door is wide open, the need is more urgent than at any time since the mass attack of the demagogues on business began. The coming 3 months, many serious students believe, will determine whether the United States is going to follow a path of unregulated competition under free democracy or swing over to collectivism.

Colorado Warehousemen Elect New Officers for 1938-39

Louis J. Johnson, of the Johnson Moving and Storage Co., and former secretary of the association, was recently elected president of the Colorado Warehousemen's Assn. R. V. Weicker, of the Weicker Transportation and Storage Co., was chosen vice-president.

The exacting and much-coveted position of treasurer was given to Mortimer Joseph, old-timer in the city's warehousing industry. New directors, many of them association members of 10 years' standing, are representative of statewide interests.

Paul Santo, of the Union Transfer, is a new director. "Jim" Duffy of the Duffy Storage and Moving Co. was another newly elected director.

W. S. Craghead of Boulder, was also elected director, and out-of-town representative.

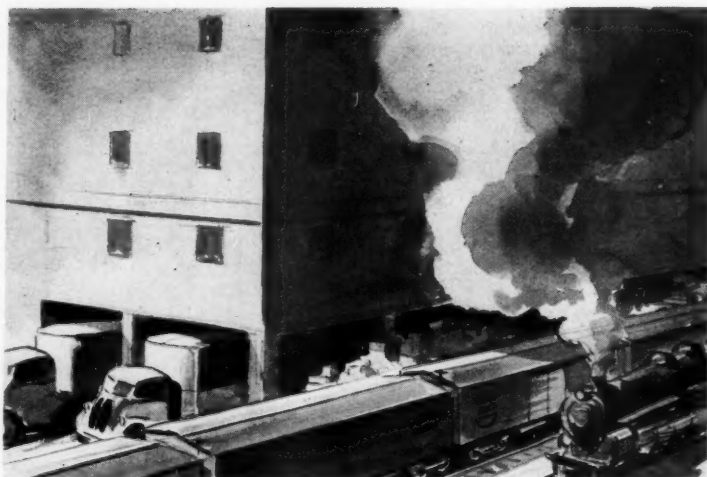

MY experience covers 6 yrs. behind the drygoods counter, 3 yrs. traveling in 23 different states selling a nationally-advertised product which was stored in public warehouses, and 25 yrs. as Distribution Manager of the Keystone Steel & Wire Co.

I have charge of all warehouse stocks throughout the United States. I consider warehousing an indispensable link in our chain of distribution. It is my job to choose or select the best distributing points for our products, consisting of woven wire field and poultry fence, barb wire, smooth wire, steel gates, fence stretchers, steel posts, nails and staples. I select the best warehouse to store and ship our products and try to maintain well-balanced stocks at all of these warehouse or distribution points to enable us to show a satisfactory turnover.

Wide-awake traffic managers are beginning to realize more and more that public warehouse services are synonymous with up-to-date merchandising. I believe that a traffic manager's knowledge of the essentials of warehousing should be almost equal to the warehouseman's knowledge. This means a lot of hard work and study. Warehousing is on a much higher plane than it was a few years ago. Therefore, a buyer of storage space and warehousing of today must be somewhat of a student. He should do considerable traveling to keep in touch with the latest and most economical methods of distribution and periodically visit the warehouses he does business with.

If I were a warehouseman I'd try to work hand in hand with all my customers, then if any disagreement or disputes were to arise we should be able to settle the matter amicably and without any aftermath of ill-will on either side. It is about time we scrapped that fatuous expression—"THERE IS NO SENTIMENT IN BUSINESS." Nothing more contrary to the truth has ever been said and people are coming more and more to realize the utter falseness of that statement. Each one of us has his share of sentiment and to hide it—to conceal it under an exterior of gruffness—is not in accordance with 1937 principles. The Golden Rule is still golden and always will be. If I were a warehouseman I'd try to be friendly to all my customers and I'd make it my business to keep in touch with them through an occasional personal letter, through postcards when on my vacation and business trips and through Christmas and New Year's greetings. Even if you may not think so, these men are always glad to hear from the warehouseman they do business with. Many a letter or postal card has been the means of establishing a life-long friendship. We are only grown up boys and girls after all, but few of us are unresponsive to kindness from those who remember us, even if it is only a short "hello."

I would like to think that my customers are my friends and want to know me better, and so I should try to know them better. If I were a warehouseman, I'd make it my business to ask my customers for advice and suggestions regarding the goods they left to my trust. I'd ask if they could tell me about some improvements to make in my system of shipping and storing, whether local conditions were such as to make it advisable, possibly, to increase their turnover.

All of us like to be asked for advice but only a few will offer it unless requested to do so. Quite often the warehouseman overlooks the fact that the shipper is ready and willing to receive constructive criticism and adopt any timely suggestions that may prove profitable to both warehouseman and shipper. Your customers are no different from any others. They like it, I know, if you go to them, and talk over matters that concern you both.

If I were a warehouseman, I'd make it my business to attend at least one warehousemen's meeting each year, even if the gathering were only a local one, and if I couldn't go myself I would send a representative. If I went myself, I'd listen to what was said in order to learn how other warehousemen had improved their methods and services and find out what was going on in other places. Perhaps I should be able to offer a few helpful suggestions since all of us have something of value to impart to others. I think it would do every warehouseman good to meet at conventions with other warehousemen who, I am certain, would like to have him attend and show an interest in their problems. We have to work together if we are to succeed. It was only through chance that I became a distributor. I could have been a warehouseman just as well and because this is true, I am going to try to look at both sides of every question. If I do this, I believe that a better understanding between us will be fostered and that this cooperation will prove to be inspirational and helpful to both warehousemen and shippers.

In the conception of the unthinking majority, a warehouse means nothing but a place to store goods for safekeeping and cold storage. In its actual function the public warehouse is a great distributing hive to which all classes of goods come and from which they swarm forth to meet immediate consumption demand. The up-to-date warehouseman is no longer a storer of "dead" merchandise, but an active collector and distributor of goods for other people and that warehouseman profits best who sees goods continually on the come and go. The warehouseman has become modernized in his ideas of good merchandising if he can quickly supply the demand for those goods which his clients want. He builds up in his marketing community a high reputation for service which reacts in favor of the merchandise he handles.

The warehouseman in selling his service has a right to expect an amount sufficient to cover his operating expenses and a reasonable percentage of profit on his investment. When the shipper has occasion to ask the warehouseman to quote rates for his service, a full description of size, weights and contents of the containers should be furnished. Never quote rates that might be interpreted as discriminatory. Too often, the warehousemen, in their eagerness to secure business, fail to give thorough consideration to the construction of rates, thus quoting either too high or too low. This, however, is not the fault of the shipper and the warehouseman who makes his quotation too high naturally fails to receive further consideration. Should he quote too low, the shipper will suspect that something is wrong and the warehouseman may lose on the transaction, but the warehousemen who quote fair and reasonable rates stand more than an equal chance of obtaining new business.

The shipper who requires daily reports should place in the hands of the warehouseman a supply of addressed envelopes to insure the prompt delivery of such reports to the proper department. Quite often the warehouseman is called upon to render duplicate reports and is censured for delays. This condition can be avoided by the use of printed envelopes, bearing the address of the department directly interested. I know a shipper who requested all public warehouses to mail a copy of daily shipping reports to the salesmen in the adjacent territory, but when the warehouses requested the shipper to reimburse them for the postage expended the warehouses were told that this extra service wasn't worth the postage. This is a flagrant illustration of the advantage that is sometimes taken by the shipper.

When asking for extra service involving extra expense, the warehouse has a right to charge for that service. In forwarding stock to public warehouses, full information as to date of shipment, route and a list of the commodities should be mailed promptly. By so doing the warehouseman will be in position to institute tracer in case of delay, advise customers who may be calling for material to be delivered on arrival of cars and make preparations for prompt handling and disposition of goods on arrival.

Consideration should also be given to the proper marking of containers, thus enabling the sorting of goods in accordance with particular sizes, brands, etc. With distinguishing marks the warehouseman is in position to make

WEIGHT vs. CUBIC CONTENTS

Conferences Held by Household Goods Carriers Indicate the Desire for the Weight Basis, Providing There Is an I.C.C. Order, Mandatory Upon All Household Goods Carriers, and Properly Policed. Cubic Contents Basis Wanted If It Is to Be a Matter of Cooperative Action of Truckers Alone

BEFORE the Interstate Commerce Commission reaches a decision whether household goods hauling rates shall be fixed on a weight or on a cubage basis, expressions of view made by carriers in a series of conferences throughout the country must be reviewed, and questionnaires which will be filled by upwards of 10,000 operators must be analyzed.

Proceeding independently, but cooperatively, the I. C. C. and the Household Goods Carrier Bureau in Washington, have combed the field for industry expression. Opinions vary as to which is the preferable method, but preliminary study indicates the desires of the trade boils down to this: if there is to be an I.C.C. order, mandatory upon all household goods carriers, and properly policed, the charges should be computed on a weight basis; but if it is to be a matter of cooperative action by the truckers alone, the cubic content should be the determining factor.

Many weeks will elapse before it can be stated definitely that this is the composite view of the operators, but the finding at this early stage seems definitely headed that way. Thousands of questionnaires are yet to be received, and no determination will be made until all are in, it was explained.

Other Information

In addition to answering the instant questions, the questionnaires will be a source of invaluable information for the carriers bureau. To begin with, it is an unusually complete enumeration of firms engaged in this business, giving names, locations, and operating officials.

Information also is available as to the length of time covered by operations, and whether hauling is confined to household goods or also embraces other lines, together with estimates of percentages in the various categories. It includes a description, by number and types, of vehicles used.

Each carrier was asked to indicate his present system for computing costs, with these classifications preceding a section for "other basis": cubic foot as figures by estimator; cubic foot basis on space loaded in the van; weight; number of rooms; per hour (interstate only).

Each also was asked to state which, in his judgment, "would be better understood by and more satisfactory to the general public"—the cubic foot basis, or the weight basis. And space was devoted to answers to the questions whether the weight basis, if used, should be determined by weighing the loaded truck, or by weighing each piece when loading.

Carriers were asked to state whether they conduct warehouses as well as carry commodities, and in that field they were requested to furnish the following information: Do you assess dock charges against other carriers?; Have you been required to pay dock charges?; Is this charge made at any points you serve?; Is this charge made at all points you serve?; Are dock charges absorbed by you?; Are dock charges added to your bill and paid by the customer?; Are dock charges covered by provisions in your tariff?

Insurance practices, as they relate to coverage of shippers goods, were inquired into by means of the questionnaire. Also, data was computed regarding discounts: for shipment "at carrier's convenience," for cash payment, for prompt payment, or for any other reason.

While this information is expected to be helpful to the Commission in arriving at its decisions, it is assumed the information gathered at conferences at various points throughout the land will be given equal weight. These, however, were not wholly in harmony on the principal points discussed, and the statements made to Commission representatives must be evaluated.

At Newark, N. J., response to questioning developed that the consensus was for a weight basis. The reasoning was that such a base would permit more definite and certain check-up on violations. Belief was expressed there that the cubic foot measurement plan has been unsatisfactory; in fact, the statement was made one out of four operators in that area are not complying strictly with tariffs. Differing tariffs, lower tariffs—and too many tariffs; these were the conditions leading to breaches, it was stated. In the Newark area hope was expressed that all discounts might be eliminated.

At Little Rock, Ark., the 100-lb. weight basis was generally approved. At the close of the conference there, a resolution was unanimously adopted to the effect that carriers favored application of that basis in household goods hauling. The I.C.C. was informed such a plan would stabilize interstate charges, making the fee the same between any two points for any and all carriers.

Operators in the Sioux Falls area considered the cubical measurement basis more satisfactory "because you can go into a house and tell a customer how much it will cost, and that is what they want." That system causes less argument, and speeds collections because the customer is ready to pay at the end of the trip, having previously been informed, and having agreed to the charge. Weight cannot be estimated accurately in advance, and scales are not always readily available, it was said in criticism of that basis. What criticism has been directed against the cubic footage rating has resulted, it was claimed, from incompetent estimates; for instance, varying "guesses" on the size of refrigerators.

Weight Basis More Accurate

Viewpoint in Grand Rapids, Mich., was diametrically opposite. All carriers present at the conference, with one exception, charge on cubage, yet the general opinion expressed was that weight is a more satisfactory and accurate gauge, and one which is less likely to be followed by complaint. Carriers computing on a cubage basis adhere more strictly to tariffs, however, the Commission representatives were told.

Grand Rapids haulers carry a large amount of new furniture, which is the principal product of that area, and they give a lower rate on such shipments than applies to used goods. Problems of correctly estimating were revealed as the principal drawback. "There are as many variations in estimates as there are estimators," summed the conviction of the carriers.

Carriers at Fort Worth, Tex., declared in favor of a weight basis. The cubic foot system was considered unfair both to the hauler and the customer, because of the varying densities of items of furniture which come under the same classification.

Cubic foot measurement was favored at Buffalo, N. Y., where no weight, and little room estimate is employed. But there was some difference of opinion as to what should be the permanent policy. The following comments indicate the clashing attitudes:

"I think it (cubage) is satisfactory, because we have definitely been getting somewhere with it. Comparison of estimates shows that the figures are within a few feet of one another."

"I do not agree. I feel that cubical measurement bases are not satisfactory. The figures are often out

50 per cent, or more, caused sometimes by a difference of opinion among estimators. Or, the customer may attempt to deceive the estimator."

Omaha, Neb., operators were in agreement on the 100-lb. weight basis. Uniformity of rates, and strict enforcement, also was asked at the conference there.

All persons present at the Roanoke, Va., conference used the cubic foot basis, but almost unanimously they declared it has not worked out satisfactory. At Portland, Me., cubic foot charges were made, with satisfaction.

At Des Moines, Ia., cubic foot measuring was unanimously declared to be unsatisfactory, principally because of variation in the size of articles, some of which are entirely out of proportion to the weight handled. It was also stressed that the average purchaser of service is more familiar with weight basis, and is more willing to pay on that basis.

60-HR. WORK WEEK FIXED BY I. C. C.

BY order issued Dec. 31, a maximum "on duty" work week of 60 hrs. for truck drivers operating foreign vehicles in interstate and foreign commerce was prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Commission directed that the order become effective July 1, 1938.

Added to the 60-hr. limitation were two other conditions—that no driver shall be required to remain "on duty" more than 15 hrs. in one day, whether "at work" or not, and that hours of actual work in a single day shall not exceed 12 hrs.

To effect compliance, the Commission directed that each driver keep a log showing his time "on duty" and "at work," and other pertinent information.

A report which accompanied the new regulations stated the limitations on hours are more strict than those now in effect in 40 states as regards permissible weekly limits, and equal to or more strict than those now in effect in 34 states as regards permissible daily limits.

"The rules," the Commission explained in a statement, "are based on evidence submitted at hearings conducted by an examiner for the Commission in eight cities representative of the principal regions of the United States, and upon oral argument held at Washington in October before Division 5 of the Commission. They are applicable to common and contract carriers by motor vehicle, including certain classes of carriers exempted from the general provisions of the Motor Carrier Act, 1935, but are not applicable to private carriers. They deal with the subject of drivers' hours only from the standpoint of safety, the Commission finding that it has no jurisdiction to base regulations upon economic factors, the unemployment situation, social considerations, and the like. They become Part V of the Motor Carrier Safety Regulations of the Commission, the first four parts—covering qualifications of drivers, certain basic rules of the road, requirements as to parts and accessories for the safe operation of busses and trucks, and the reporting of accidents—having been promulgated in December, 1936."

The Commission's order was not based upon a finding that driver fatigue has been an important factor in causing highway accidents, but it was concluded that "cumulative fatigue" might increase trucking hazards.

Both the weekly limitation of 60 hrs. and the maximum daily limitation of 15 hrs. apply to hours "on duty" rather than "at work." It was found, the Commission reported, that it is customary, in both the trucking and the bus industries, for drivers to stop at comparatively frequent intervals for rest and refreshment, and they do not drive continuously. Such rest periods are to be reckoned as time "on duty," but not as time "at work."

This division of time into two classifications was made to cover the needs of small individual operators who have comparatively long runs, cannot afford relief drivers, but do not have daily schedules. The flexibility, it was reasoned, will enable carriers to meet conditions beyond their control, such as delays caused by shippers or by traffic congestion.

The order was described in the Commission report as only "the initial step." It proposes to undertake, with the cooperation of other government departments, a comprehensive and scientific study of the causes and effect of driver fatigue, if Congress provides the necessary funds. Accident reports also will be analyzed to determine what part fatigue plays in highway hazards.

The use of sleeper cabs, shown to be necessary in certain types of operations, is permitted under the new regulations, but such cabs are required to be "properly equipped for the purpose of sleeping, including springs and mattresses, or an inner spring mattress, pillow, adequate bed clothing, adequate ventilation, and ready means of entering and leaving the berth."

Rejecting the petition of the International Association of Machinists that mechanics employed by motor transporters be covered in the order for maximum work week, the Commission stated:

"There is evidence to the effect that employees in these repair shops work the hours that are customary in such cities, and no evidence that such hours result in unsafe condition of equipment. No need for the issuance of regulations governing the maximum hours of these workers, therefore, is disclosed by the record."

Trucking companies were not censured for the long work week found in a survey of the industry.

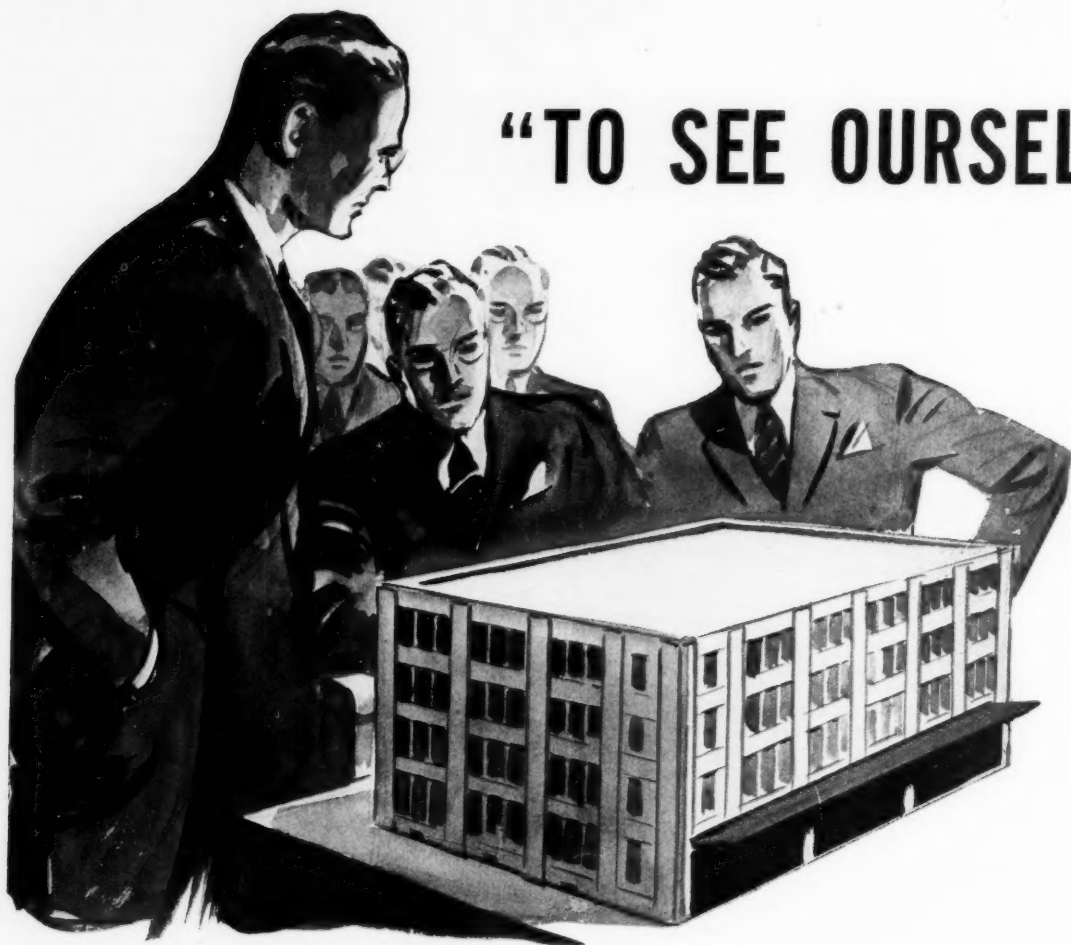

"It should be pointed out that the long hours referred to above are not necessarily the result of a lack of interest on the part of the carriers in matters of safety or in the welfare of their men," the Commissioners stated. "They often are brought about by the nature of the business."

The effect of the hourly limitation is to prescribe a 48-hr. week for actual work—not more than 12 hrs. per day—in cases where drivers are "on duty" 15 hrs. a day.

Time spent by the driver while resting or sleeping in a sleeper cab is not to be regarded time "on duty"; and of course is not time "at work."

In case of flood, storm, accident, or similar emergency, a driver may complete his run without being in violation of the provisions of the regulations, if such run would reasonably have been completed without violation except for the delay caused by such emergency. Service in time of flood, fire, famine, drought, epidemic, pestilence, or other calamitous visitation or disaster, likewise is not governed by the rules.

The type of log to be kept by drivers will be described in a supplemental report, the Commission stated.

"TO SEE OURSEL'S

THE warehousing industry, one might say, devotes itself almost exclusively to service. The service offered by the public warehouse is one that dovetails nicely with the complicated activities of modern distribution. Manufacturers are finding more and more what a convenience it is to maintain spot stocks at strategic points. Not only that, but many have found that this practice actually saves them considerable sums of money over a prolonged period. And since goods shipped to sales areas in carload quantities go at lower rates than if sent l.c.l., a worthwhile saving is made in transportation costs. In addition, shipments to customers can be made more promptly and satisfactorily, thus saving time and eliminating annoyances, which helps to build customer good will.

Warehouses not only store and handle goods, supplying space merely as needed by the respective manufacturers, but they fill orders, send these orders on their way, make collections, break up pool car shipments and speed them to their destinations, issue negotiable and non-negotiable receipts which can be used as collateral at local banks, and in many other special ways do their bit in the field of distribution.

Value of Warehouses

Recently, through personal interviews with traffic managers, and contacts by mail, a number of interesting ideas regarding the value of merchandise warehouses and warehouse service were brought to light. Further questioning revealed the fact that while practically all manufacturers having wide distribution availed themselves of the advantages offered by warehouses, many felt that some changes might be made which would redound to the benefit of all concerned.

The number of manufacturers to whom direct questions were put was rather limited as compared with the total number of users of that service. The group, however, represented shippers of a varied assortment of products, including chemicals, canned and packaged goods, building materials, tobacco products, soaps and cleaning materials, cosmetics, household appliances, and a number of others. Some of the answers were surprisingly frank and straightforward. Most of the remarks were highly complimentary to the warehousing industry, while a few may not set so well, but they are given here as samples of what is going through the minds of shippers, and not as idle criticism nor for entertainment purposes. It is to be understood that these suggestions do not represent the majority opinion, nor even a cross-section of thought, nor is it believed that they would be concurred in by a majority of shippers. Therefore they should perhaps not be taken too seriously. However, opinions are opinions, and if in what is presented here there is anything that will help the industry to come closer to clients and be of greater service, or make for a better understanding, the effort will not have been in vain.

AS OTHERS SEE US"

Those answering these questions are all warehouse users,—one has been stocking in warehouses for 12 yrs., using at present about 20 warehouses; one has used this method of distribution for 25 yrs., making use of 30 to 40 warehouses; another now employs about 100 and has been using warehouses for 55 yrs.; one for 16 yrs., using 150 at the present time; and so on. In recounting the suggestions offered, only the outstanding ones are given,—those thought to be the most interesting to the warehousemen.

Indispensable

All of those queried thought that the warehouse occupied a distinct place in the field of distribution. Some spoke of the service as necessary, one thought it particularly helpful to small operators; "indispensable" was the word another used.

One question was; of the services offered, which appeals to you most strongly and which is most advantageous to your company? A variety of answers was received. Some were principally interested in the pool car distribution, some liked having spot stocks in certain territories, some liked the quick service. One liked the completeness of the service, and the accuracy with which records and reports were made. One appreciated the general storage and reshipping of merchandise; some mentioned the saving in transportation costs, one spoke of it as an excellent shipping service; others were relieved by being able to unload the details of individual shipments. But one happy warrior—a shipper of national reputation—said that what he most appreciated was "Courtesy—the warehouses do not charge for this, but we could well afford to pay for it." Coming spontaneously and given in all sincerity, this surely is worth something. Hats off to an appreciative customer.

Another question: What suggestion can you make which in your opinion would improve the services as now rendered? One said, "Warehouses should have contacts with all carriers and be able to select the best and most practical method in shipping owners' goods." Another thought that traffic managers would be greatly helped if, after telling how large an area is to be served and to what points shipments will be made, they could be given the l.c.l. rates, railroad and truck, and be told what companies were the most reliable for that particular product. One suggested that warehouses "Do away with the many small bills, minimum charges, etc."; still another "Various small clerical services should be absorbed by warehouses, many of which could be absorbed practically as cheap as paper, work, and extra accounting involved as passing them on to the shipper."

Asked what services could be added to make warehouses still more valuable to shippers, one replied "Services of rate clerks familiar with 'Pick-up and delivery Service' so as to insure 're-shipped' goods going out at cheapest rate"; another said "In some cases the development of prospective customers, and regular contacts with present customers. The territory, the products, and other conditions would influence this suggestion." Here's another, "I believe warehouses could have available more specific information to shippers in connection with local prospects. In other words, assist in getting new accounts by furnishing lists of best prospects. This would not take much work on their part." Still another said, "Keeping shipper posted on local rate changes and improved service, keeping in mind economy and efficiency. Should be 'watch dog' for shippers."

Remedial Measures

What remedial measures would you suggest to correct any weaknesses that now exist? "Where various warehouses in a certain locality group together for the establishment of a tariff, they should avoid too high a scale of rates. If rates are too high, some one will 'gyp' and the inevitable result will be cut-throat practices." "Impress upon the warehouses the fact that they should treat each order received from the jobbing trade as a very important matter to be handled quickly and to the best of their judgment, the same as they would be handled by the home office." And here's something interesting,—one says, "Better follow through on pool car distribution to get deliveries made promptly as soon as goods arrive"; while another, using pool car service exclusively throughout the country says just the opposite, namely, "The service rendered in the distribution of pool car shipments is, generally speaking, faultless." One user thinks that warehousemen have something to learn in rate making. Something, it is suggested, could be done to move merchandise in larger volume by having warehousemen do their bit in bringing down costs to the ultimate consumer.

Motor Freight

In view of the controversy that has been started by the widespread use of long distance motor truck carriers, it was thought advisable to include the following question: What is your opinion of the efficiency of distribution by motor truck (beyond 200 miles) from a few warehouses as compared with distribution from spot stocks in a larger number of warehouses in a given area? Outstanding replies were as follows: "Motor transportation is, of course, not as well organized as rails. The answer to the above question depends on 'who is hauling to which destination'." Another replied, "We use a lot, prompt delivery and store-door"; and another, "Would prefer spot stocks in a number of warehouses. Find truck service in very many cases is not reliable, although they are improving." "Spot stocks are better if sufficient volume is obtainable. Too much 'loss and damage' when trucks are used." "Depends to a large extent upon the particular territory and the products involved, amount of turnover, and many other conditions." "The warehouse can give satisfactory service to all points where over-

Ontario Movers Elect May

THE annual meeting of the Ontario Movers' Assn. was held Dec. 30 at the Wentworth Arms Hotel in Hamilton. The president, Fred May, was chairman, and a very enthusiastic group of members attended to ring out the old and ring in the new. The annual meeting took strictly the form of a business meeting, and was stripped of its usual social character, in order that matters pertaining to pressing business and the election of officers and directors for the year 1938 might be dealt with. It was decided that a meeting of a more general character would be held later to which the officials and friends in sister associations could be invited. Considering the fact that no outside friends nor guests were invited the meeting was well attended. Members were present from Toronto, Ottawa, Brantford, Woodstock, London, Niagara Falls and other centers in the province were in attendance and expressed themselves as satisfied with the progress and efforts of the association in the year 1937.

Reports of the president, secretary and treasurer were read and showed very encouraging results attained through the association. The president in his remarks drew attention to the fact that the association was one of the best watch-dogs a mover could possibly have to guard his business, and expressed the opinion that long-distance movers who did not belong were doing their businesses a grave injustice.

The following officers were elected: President, Fred May, general manager of Hill the Mover, Hamilton; vice-president, C. A. Ward, C. A. Ward, Ltd., Toronto; secretary, Arch. MacDougal, MacDougal the Mover, Hamilton; treasurer, Frank Dixon, Dixon the Mover, London; Board of Directors, Alec Anderson, Anderson Van & Storage, London; Fred Bigham, Bigham the Mover, Woodstock; E. W. Lancaster, E. W. Lancaster Co., Ltd., Windsor; M. A. Rawlinson, M. Rawlinson, Ltd., Toronto; and Lorne Scobie, Jr., Scobie & Son, Niagara Falls.

Grant Orth

GRANT ORTH, founder of the Orth Van & Storage Co., Pasadena, Cal., is dead. Mr. Orth had been in business for 42 yrs. and was 69 yrs. old at the time of his death.

Grant Orth and Martin Bekins were two of the pioneers in the storage and moving and pool car shipping business in the vicinity of Los Angeles. They cooperated in making up carloads eastbound, together.

Mr. Orth recently has not been a member of the associations, although previously he had been prominently identified with the California Van & Storage Assn., as well as the National Furniture Warehousemen's Assn.

For 24 yrs. he had been a director of the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena. His widow, Mrs. Agnes B. Orth, survives him.

Reduced Sugar Rate Set Aside

A three-judge federal court at Albany, N. Y., has set aside the three orders issued by the I.C.C. reducing transportation rates from southern and Atlantic seaboard sugar refineries into Ohio.

These rates were established by the commission March 8, 1937, following an investigation into complaints from two New Orleans shippers, a Savannah, Ga., refinery and refineries shipping sugar from Brooklyn and Edgewater, N. J.

Immediately the Baltimore and Ohio RR. and other carriers began suit to set aside the order. The complaining refineries contended that the established rates, classified as "all-rail," "barge-rail" and "barge-trucks" rates, were "unreasonable and prejudicial."

Circuit Judge Learned Hand, of the second judicial circuit, issued the invalidation decision after a hearing in federal court. District Judges Frank Cooper and Alfred C. Coxe sat with Judge Hand.

Newsprint Rate Lowered

A rate of 31 cents per 100 lbs. has been granted by the I.C.C. to nine railroads on shipments of newsprint from Donnacona, Quebec, to Chicago, between May 1 and Nov. 30. The order also permits carriers to maintain higher rates to intermediate points under the condition that the rates to these points may not be increased except as authorized by the I.C.C.

The carriers sought the rate reduction to meet water competition between the points involved during the season of open navigation. The previous rate was 38.5 cents.

Expect Pa. 44-Hr. Decision by Jan. 3

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, sitting in Philadelphia, Dec. 10, decided to assume original jurisdiction in a number of equity actions to determine the constitutionality of the State's 44-hr. work week. Immediate hearing, however, was deferred to permit opposing counsel to agree on the facts. Indications at the time were that argument would be heard in time for a decision to be handed down before Jan. 3, the postponed effective date of the act.

The decision to postpone was reached previously by the State Industrial Board to give industry and its army of employees in the State time to adjust themselves to the new work week. Exemptions had been asked by numerous industries, businesses and services. The Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn. was reported to favor special exemptions for emergencies on peak periods.

The original suit to test the act's constitutionality was filed in Dauphin County courts by a single firm, but since then, more than a score of industries were said to be seeking the right to intervene in contests before the high tribunal.

4,000,000-Ton Increase for Philadelphia

James F. Bogardus, Secretary of Forests and Waters, in a recent address before the United Men's Business Club, Philadelphia, urged exporters, importers and the rail carriers of Pennsylvania to make more use of the Port of Philadelphia, which is the second largest port in the United States in the volume of waterborne tonnage, with approximately seventy-seven steamship lines serving about 175 ports in all parts of the world and with numerous transshipment services. He mentioned that the port received 16,383 vessels in 1936, or an increase of 1,270 over 1935, while tonnage increased 4,000,000. Greater use of the port, he said, would save shippers time and money.

Surprise Home-Coming Welcome Given Millers

A "WELCOME HOME" dinner in the nature of a surprise was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Buell G. Miller by the employees of the Miller North Broad Storage Co., Philadelphia, on the Hotel Walton roof, on the night of Nov. 22. The occasion celebrated the return of Mr. and Mrs. Miller from a voyage to Havana, Cuba; Kingston, Jamaica, and stops at points in the Panama Canal Zone, begun on Nov. 4, when they sailed from Pier No. 9, New York, on the SS. Veragua, of the United Fruit Line's Great White Fleet, and ended on Nov. 21, the round trip by water having been made on this ship. Incidentally, the holiday marked for Mr. Miller his first vacation in 25 years.

The tropical tour took the travelers across the Panama Canal by train, and on to Port Limon, Costa Rica, returning by train to San Jose and back to Havana via the canal.

General arrangements for the dinner—which was planned not as a conventional testimonial affair, but rather as an event of gay informality with a happy ending—were in the charge of William Higgins, of the Miller sales force, while Mrs. Irene Fager supervised the special arrangements for the ladies.

The surprise procedure was carried out most carefully. When the voyagers had reached Havana on the return journey, Mr. Miller received a telegram from Mr. Higgins, asking if he and Mrs. Miller would have dinner with two of "the boys" in New York. They accepted by wire, but later had to rescind this when a ship official informed Mr. Miller there would be some delay in getting into port at New York. When the Veragua docked at Pier No. 9, New York, however, the travelers were met by Mr. Miller's brother, George Miller, Jr., and Mr. Higgins, the party proceeding to the Miller home in Jenkintown, Pa., where they dined. Mr. and Mrs. Miller later received an invitation from Mr. Higgins to dine with him in the Hotel Walton, the following night, carefully conveying the impression that there would be "four or five" at the dinner.

Of course, all details, even to the most minute, for the surprise event had been seen to long beforehand. When Mr. and Mrs. Miller arrived at the Walton, they were paged and escorted to the roof. As they stepped from the elevator, a band, provided for the occasion, burst into the strains of "Sailing, Sailing, Over the Bounding Main," commemorative of the guests' voyage.

Complete astonishment was reflected in the faces of Mr. and Mrs. Miller. At a long, flower-decked table were seated approximately fifty persons, including Miller organization executives, department heads and members of the office personnel. As the guests of honor reached the table, all arose and heartily sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." As Mr. Miller said later, in recounting some of his reactions, and expressing his appreciation:

"I was somewhat stunned when I saw about fifty at the table. At first, I could not see who they all were, but the details of what was going on and what had been done came out in the next few minutes. Naturally, I was much surprised."

Place cards, indicative of the occasion, were at every plate. For each man there was a white carnation for a boutonniere and for each lady, a corsage. That for Mrs. Miller was of gardenias, while for the others were miniature hardy chrysanthemums. The floral centerpiece was of gardenias, chrysanthemums and ferns. But ingenuity in the table arrangements had been capped by a sizable toy "United Fruit Line Pier No. 9," with proper sign and all above the pier-house, imitative of that from which the travelers had sailed; and at "anchor" at the pier lay two toy steamships, one of which bore the familiar name, "Veragua."

To Mr. and Mrs. Miller were presented the floral centerpiece, the toy pier and the ships, as souvenirs to take home.

Some 50 odd employees of Buell G. Miller gave him and Mrs. Miller a real surprise welcome-home at this dinner held in their honor to celebrate their return from a voyage to southern countries. This holiday marked for Mr. Miller his first vacation in 25 yrs.

Rail Rate Rise Assured

VIRTUAL assurance that the railroads of the Nation will be permitted to increase rates, whether or not the full 15 per cent requested is approved, came Dec. 16 when Jesse H. Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., announced his agency is prepared to extend loans which may be needed by the carriers for "tiding over until they can get rate increases."

Chairman Jones made it clear that no wholesale funding of railroads is in contemplation; that the loans will be of the distress type. Since it is clear that the borrowers will be roads which must depend upon increased revenues to repay the government, it is presumed that R.F.C. had assurance that rate increases would be approved before announcing its willingness to resume lending.

Railroads already owe the Reconstruction Finance Corp. $356,000,000, and the government holds the obligations of more than half the rail carriers in the United States. Under a Presidential order, no money is available for a new railroad, but the old "customers" will continue to be served.

Taking its cue from a White House statement of policy, the Interstate Commerce Commission early in the current proceedings rejected the plea of railroads that they be permitted at once to jack up rates 15 per cent.

Almost coincident with the President's suggestion to "make haste slowly," the Commission was confronted with a proposal that trucking companies increase their charges on an average of 20 per cent. Railroad attorneys immediately raised the charge that the truckers are "drawing a red herring across the trail," but the objection was overruled by Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison who declared the subject germane to the question under examination.

In Bad Shape

Volumes of testimony already have gone into the record. Repeating, for the purpose of emphasis, representatives of the 17 petitioning railroads contended the rail carriers are presently in the worst state of economic depression their systems have ever known. Operating costs are perilously close to incomes, and the thin line of profit is likely to be obliterated at any time, they fretfully complained. Taxes, principally federal levies, have been an especially depressing factor, the Commission was told.

The government was asked to bear in mind throughout the hearings that 96 railroads now operate in receivership, and a warning was sounded that rejection of the plea for a 15 per cent increase will catapult many more into that situation.

Argument that improved financial condition, to be brought about by added revenues, would be a factor in general business betterment was immediately seized upon by foes of the increase and provided the first battle-ground of the hearings.

Sane operating economies and enterprise in increasing volume are the cures, protesting briefs asserted.

President John J. Pelley of the Association of American Railroads countered with a picture of the financial condition of the roads. He stressed the fact that to handle the traffic in the 1937 fiscal year cost $665,000,000 more than the same volume would require in 1933. And, he asked, with every conceivable technological development employed to lower operating costs, and every imaginable source of new revenue sought—how could such a spread as that be absorbed by the modes suggested? Increased rates are the only cure, he replied.

The increases granted in Ex Parte 115, plus those asked in the pending petition, would produce a revenue still falling $100,000,000 short of meeting the increase over the past four years, Pelley computed.

For the purpose of demonstrating the brake placed upon improved business by the decreasing profits of rail service, witnesses pointed out less equipment is being purchased than in "good times," supplies and materials are being held down to the lowest possible point of safety, and employment is being kept within the bounds of absolute necessity. The increase in rail rates, it was promised, would unloose a flood of new orders, increase employment, and insure some measure of general improvement in national economic conditions. Upwards of one billion dollars might be used to re-equip the roads at once.

Could Reduce Service

The railroad industry was pictured as one of heavy "fixed" changes with costly equipment; one which is taxed to the hilt, and which is required to maintain a relatively high wage scale. The ominous alternative to enlarged revenues is reduced operations and personnel, it was warned.

Shippers, too, have a vital stake, the argument continued. If fast freight service, immediate attention to shipper needs, and attractive schedules are to be had, the roads must have the wherewithal to provide them.

The spectre of government-operated railroads hovered over the entire Washington hearing. Witnesses made casual and almost off-hand references to conditions which obtained during the days of the United States Railroad Administration, and painted a more satisfactory picture under private ownership and operation. It was obvious that President Roosevelt's occasional mention of public ownership—although he has never forthrightly declared for it—has troubled the operators.

Not overlooking a single line of argument that might add to the weight of their case, carriers pointed out that theirs is not an operation by a few individuals, but that ownership is spread throughout the country and into all classes, by reason of securities ownership. Mentioned were financial houses, insurance companies, charities, hospitals, etc.

President of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, J. B. Hill issued a warning to opponents of the rate increase that they may find themselves victimized by their own shortsighted policy.

"I do not think the Southern is going to 'bust' but if relief is not forthcoming, it must adopt remedies which will come hard on employees and the public it is called upon to serve."

The hackneyed phrase "to meet truck competition" seemed effectively buried as F. W. Robinson of the Union Pacific, pleaded for new revenues not to pay a reasonable return on investment, but for incomes that will make continued operation possible. It was Robinson who blew the truck competitive argument out of the discussion when he declared truckers probably desire the rails request granted for the reason that they will then be in a position to boost their own rates.

Message of Condolence

Robinson's assertion proved prophetic to some extent when the American Trucking Associations, through President Ted V. Rodgers, issued a message of condolence to the railroads, and simultaneously announced a policy for the future. Rodgers said:

"What is true of the railroads is likewise true of motor carriers, as disclosed by a survey made by the A.T.A. Emergency Revenue Committee. This survey shows that the margin between expenses and revenues of motor carriers is so narrow that the industry virtually is on the verge of wholesale bankruptcy. In fact, many motor carriers recently have embraced the provisions of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. Many more are on the ragged edge.

"The testimony of the railroad executives may have been a bit shocking to the layman who has not been wise to the true economic condition prevailing in most industries. The railroads, like many other industries, have had to assume increased costs due to new taxes, higher wages, advancing commodity prices, etc., while adhering to an outmoded level of rates.

"As administrator of the Interstate Commerce Act, the Interstate Commerce Commission is charged with the duty of promoting the welfare of the transportation agencies in the public interest. It certainly would not be in the public interest if these agencies were forced to the wall, their services curtailed, their employees thrown out of work and the other industries deprived of their tremendous buying power and the influence on the general welfare of the nation."

Taking the witness stand on the I.C.C. hearing after Rodgers had published his statement, Chester G. Moore, secretary of A.T.A. fixed the amount of increase necessary to save the trucking lines, at 20 per cent. He predicted an immediate "upping" of trucking rates, and assured the Commission few will lag behind for temporary benefit, for the reason that all truckers are in desperate need of more income.

Operating Losses

An analysis of the trucking association survey disclosed representative carriers have had increased tonnage but the advance in operating costs not only have absorbed the new revenues but have drawn upon the old.

Following the same line of argument as was pursued by the railroads, Moore pointed out that incomes and costs are practically touching each other, and in some cases there are actually operating deficits. No surplus is available to finance new or better equipment, and general prosperity is being delayed to that extent, he said.

Under cross-examination, Moore emphasized the fact that rails are no longer troubled by truck competition, but that the reverse is true. Answering a question why truckers intend to await increased rail fares before boosting their own tariffs, he frankly replied:

"For competitive reasons. We do not believe that the truck operators can increase their rates above rail rates in many cases and continue to handle the business. The shipper would probably use the service that had the lower rate. There are, however, cases where the trucker can, and does, get a premium for his service over the rail rate."

Having concluded hearings in Washington and rejected the proposal that a 15 per cent increase be allowed pending a final determination, the hearings have "gone on the road." They will be conducted at various points throughout the country, after which the mountains of testimony will be analyzed here, and decision announced. When that will be, I.C.C. attaches will not hazard a guess.

Free Storage on Piers Limited to 10 Days

WATER carriers are ordered to discontinue by Jan. 21, 1938, excessive free storage in the Port of New York, in an order issued by the U. S. Maritime Commission.

This ukase complements an order recently handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission directing carriers by rail to cease practices which private warehousemen had complained threatened their industrial existence.

Originally, the Maritime Commission had under inquiry the lawfulness of charges, regulations and practices of common carriers by water in foreign commerce, relating to storage of import property at the ports of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk. The order, however, is directed only at overtime free storage of important property at New York.

The inquiry served the purpose of informing the government on a number of subjects relating to operations in all Atlantic Seaboard ports, for all respondents were required to submit answers to a questionnaire calling for data relating to trade routes; pier facilities; principal commodities transported; rules, regulations, practices, and charges maintained by respondents or affiliates, applicable to storage of import property; the costs to respondents in connection with the handling of such property; and tonnage held for more than 10 days during a 5 mos. period.

Investigation was made of 55 shipping lines using the Port of New York, 33 of them using that port exclusively.

At Atlantic ports other than New York, the Commission found, rules and regulations governing free time and storage charges on import cargo are enforced by the terminal operators, and is strictly limited as to number of days. Wharf demurrage or storage is assessed at all other facilities after the expiration of scheduled free time. In some instances the ocean carriers retain control of import property until delivery, and collect storage charges as agent of the terminal operator; in other instances control is relinquished to the terminal operator after free time, or the property is delivered to the operator immediately upon discharge from the vessel.

Where those conditions obtain, the Commission concluded there was no necessity for issuance of an order.

"At the port of New York, respondents provide pier facilities usually at considerable expense, by lease or other arrangement under which they obtain exclusive or partial use of such facilities or space to accommodate cargo discharged, with practically no restriction of free time," the Commission's report accused.

"They retain control of the property until delivered, and permit consignees or owners thereof to take delivery at their convenience, either by complete or partial lot. The additional pier expenses are absorbed by respondents, notwithstanding definite provisions in their bills of lading and arrival notices requiring consignees or owners to take delivery immediately upon discharge or within a limited time thereafter. Also, the right is reserved to send the merchandise to storage at the risk and expense of the owner or consignee, or, in some cases, to assess wharfage or storage charges. Respondents frankly admit they do not enforce these provisions and do not maintain or enforce general rules or regulations governing free time, primarily because it is not the custom of the port or the practice of competing carriers to limit the period of free time or to make any charge for storage. They state that competition between carriers prevents the limitation of free time by voluntary action, the fear being expressed by some that such action would result in loss of business to competing lines and possibly to competing ports."

Periods of free storage varied in the different ports, and in the same ports as to different commodities. But the Commission found it was generally admitted that no great effort is made by the water carriers to compel removal of import cargo until the pier space is urgently needed.

"Hence," states the report, "consignees use the piers as warehouses until it is convenient for them to take delivery or sell the property. Considerable import cargo has been allowed to remain on the piers at New York in excess of the time generally regarded as reasonably necessary to complete delivery thereof."

"Answers to questionnaires submitted by approximately one-half of respondent carriers show that during the first 5 mos. of 1935, import property was held on their piers for more than 10 days after discharge as follows: after 10 days, 286,639 tons; after 15 days, 114,918 tons; after 20 days, 64,803 tons; after 25 days, 36,319 tons; and after 30 days, 22,851 tons. The property held on the piers beyond 10 days amounted approximately to 30 per cent of the total cargo discharged by the same carriers during the period referred to."

The record is clear, said the Commission, that the carriers incur additional expense by granting excessive free time, these costs resulting mainly from extra tiering of cargo, rehandling of shipments, extra hire for clerks, and additional pier rental. Some claimed, however, that no additional expense results, but the Commission nevertheless concluded:

"The absorption by respondents of the extra cost of this service is a valuable concession to those who are advantaged by it, and an unreasonable burden on respondents' transportation revenue."

"The practice has at times caused congestion on the piers at New York, necessitating the shifting of cargo to make room for incoming cargo. It is said that with limitation of free time ships could be loaded and discharged more expeditiously than at present. A representative of the trucking interests at New York testified that the congestion creates unreasonable expense in connection with the trucking of import merchandise, and makes it difficult to handle export freight."

"Representatives of warehousemen at New York testified that the allowance of free time by respondents deprives them of business, and jeopardizes their investment of approximately $150,000,000 in the merchandise warehousing business, which is devoted to furnishing services required by foreign and domestic trade. Philadelphia and Boston warehousemen represent that the practice diverts merchandise which would normally come to their warehouses. Limitation of free time on import traffic at New York would place the other North Atlantic ports in a better position with relation to competitive traffic, and any increase of import traffic to such ports would naturally result in increased business for the warehousemen."

The Commission directed attention to Section 17 of the Shipping Act of 1916, which provides that water carriers in foreign commerce must establish, observe, and enforce just and reasonable regulations and practices relating to or connected with the receiving, handling, storing, or delivering of property. The evidence, the Commissioners agreed, makes it clear that the carriers are not complying with the law in the New York port.

The respondent companies had expressed willingness to abide by a reasonable limitation on free storage, but asked that the order be one which recognized the peculiar characteristics, and low value of some commodities, which do not allow of expensive warehousing. They also argued that too strict a regulation would place New York at a disadvantage with other ports.

The Commission's reply was that a 10-day limit would be a reasonable one as to all commodities, that period being exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays.

Directing that the 10-day restriction shall be effective as of Jan. 21, 1938, the Commission ordered that all carriers in the port of New York shall be subject thereto, whether or not they were parties named in the original complaint.

A word of caution also was uttered to those who might contemplate subterfuge, the Commission observing:

"It is intimated by certain interveners that respondents may, in effect, nullify the order by assessing merely nominal charges for storage after free time. This of course would plainly violate the spirit of the order, but we may not in advance impute to respondents a desire to defeat the order through subterfuge."

Are Freight Forwarders Brokers or Common Carriers?

Arguments on whether freight forwarders can be regulated under the motor carrier act, and if they can, whether they are common carriers or brokers, were presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission in the case of Acme Fast Freight, Inc.

The arguments were reviewed, following an appeal from the ruling of Division 5 which recently held the applicant to be a broker under the Federal statutes by a two to one decision.

The applicant was represented by John R. Turney, who contended that Acme was not a broker but a common carrier, maintaining that its railroad operations should be regulated under Part I of the Interstate Commerce Act, while other operations should be governed by Part II, or the Motor Carrier Act.

The Acme counsel, pointing to the operating setup, stated that if the Commission held the company to be a broker, it would be without power to regulate its rates and charges. Urging reversal of the Division ruling, he proposed granting of a certificate covering all of its operations with the exception of those handled by rail.

"We would much prefer to have the compensation between the truck carrier and the forwarder under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission."

"Acme holds itself out to the public at large to transport freight from door to door for hire, and that is unquestionably a common carrier operation. Every single essential characteristic of a common carrier is met by this applicant," he said.

In his contention that the definition of a common carrier in the motor carrier act includes express and forwarding concerns, bringing them under regulation as indirect operation, Turney stated:

"The fact is that this carrier is a common carrier and if he isn't under this Act, he isn't under anything at all."

Other witnesses sharing the views of the Acme representative were R. E. Quick, counsel for National Carloading Corporation, another forwarder, and Edward S. Brashears, representing American Trucking Associations.

Quick said it would stretch the brokerage definition too far to say that a forwarder is a broker, while Brashears declared:

"The only place forwarders are mentioned in the motor carrier act is in the definition of 'common carrier,' where the language is one of express inclusion."

I.C.C. Orders Truck & Rail Cost-Finding Inquiry

A COST-FINDING inquiry in a truck and rail transportation has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The investigation is for the purpose of determining whether carriers subject to the jurisdiction of the ICC should file special or annual reports for cost-finding purposes. The reports, it was pointed out, could be filed in accordance with the plan recommended by Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman while serving as coordinator of transportation.

The inquiry ordered will also determine whether the Commission should prescribe forms of accounts, records, or memoranda to be kept by all the carriers in connection with the cost-finding activity.

Directing attention to cases now before the Commission in which participants are attempting to determine the costs of railway, highway, and waterway transportation, the Commission's order stated.

"The parties are presenting evidence as to transportation costs incurred within state boundaries, obtained by apportioning transportation system expenses to the various states served without uniformity in the methods used for such apportionments."

The Commission's proposed study was initiated by requests from the National Industrial Traffic League, for information on railway costs, and from the Railroad Commission of Texas, for similar data on transportation by pipe line.

N. Y. Wins in Lighterage Case with N. J.

ANOTHER victory was scored by New York, Oct. 18, in the New Jersey lighterage case when a special Federal court of three judges handed down a decision in Trenton, dismissing a suit brought by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners indirectly attacking a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The suit sought to have set aside an I.C.C. order that freight rates between Camden and points in northern New Jersey should be no lower than the rates between Philadelphia and northern New Jersey. Such action was asked because the I.C.C. had ruled in the lighterage case that northern New Jersey should be grouped with the Port of New York for rate making, thus requiring the same rates between Camden and northern New Jersey as between Philadelphia and New York.

In dismissing the suit the court held:

First, that the grouping of northern New Jersey with New York for rate-making purposes had been held lawful by the I.C.C. in the lighterage case in which the State of New Jersey was a party;

Second, that if New Jersey had desired to appeal from that decision it should have done so at that time.

The court also held, in answer to the contention of New Jersey that it was denied a full hearing, that the state had had ample opportunity to present its side in the lighterage case and that the I.C.C. in approving the grouping of New Jersey with New York had merely confirmed a rate adjustment existing for many years and upon which the business of the country had been built up. There was no ground, the court found, for considering the I.C.C. action arbitrary or unlawful.

The bench was composed of Judge J. Warren Davis, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Judge John Boyd Avis and Judge Philip Forman of the United States District Court of New Jersey.

J. Stanley Payne represented the I.C.C. Edwin A. Lucas appeared for the railroads involved and John J. Hickey for the New Jersey public utility commissioners.

I.C.C. Allows Rate Rise to Net $20,000,000

The Interstate Commerce Commission approved on Dec. 18 freight rate increases estimated to return $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually to the railroads. The increases became effective Dec. 20 and were allowed by approving tariffs proposed by the rails on specific commodities Oct. 19.

While approving most of the proposed tariffs, the commission suspended the new rate schedules on five commodities, specifying these become effective July 20. These were on industrial sand in carloads, seeds in carloads between the intermountain and Pacific coast territories, rough rolled glass, sulphur in carloads via water lines between North Atlantic and South Atlantic ports, and on animal or poultry feed in carloads in Illinois and Southern transportation territories.

Commodities upon which the commission allowed freight increases included virtually everything not in the so-called "heavy-loading classification" covered by the Oct. 19 order.

Some of the increases were: 4 cents a 100 lbs. on fresh meat and packing products; 3 cents on long hauls of sugar; 1 to 2 cents on brick and clay products, peanuts, fertilizers, vegetable oil, malt liquors, and liquor containers, salt, soda, oil well supplies, and glass containers.

Ex Parte 104, Part 6 Hearing at N. Y., Jan. 11

The Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered further hearings in Ex Parte 104, Part VI, as it relates to the agreements and arrangements between the Erie Railroad Co. (and its subsidiaries) and the Seaboard Terminal & Refrigeration Co., and the leasing, sub-leasing, and renting of space in the buildings of the Seaboard Terminal & Refrigeration Co., at Jersey City, N. J.

Ex Parte 104, Part VI, involves practices of trunk line carriers serving the Port of New York and specifically the warehousing and storage of property. The New York District Court recently upheld the Commission's order of Feb. 2, 1937, directing seven rail carriers to cease and desist from storing, handling, and insuring goods, shipped over their lines, at below-cost rates; and requiring the railroads to cease and desist from leasing space and providing storage space to shippers over their lines at non-compensatory rates and charges. The part of that proceeding now set for hearing was set aside for further examination by the commission several months ago.

The Commission's order of Feb. 2, 1937, as issued, required the Erie company to discontinue subsidizing and granting concessions to the Seaboard Terminal & Refrigeration Co. by means of excessive rentals paid for space leased from that company. Upon complaint of the Seaboard company that it had not been granted a hearing, the Commission vacated and set aside this part of the order and set it for future hearing.

Reopening this session of the proceeding, the Commission has set the case for Jan. 11, 1938, at the Hotel New Yorker, New York City, before special examiner H. C. King.

Wharfage Case at Norfolk Lost by Truckmen

Truckmen lost an important round in their fight against alleged discriminatory charges at the Port of Hampton Roads, Va., when an examiner of the U. S. Maritime Commission recommended dismissal of the complaint of the Hampton Roads Transportation Co., Norfolk, against the Norfolk Tidewater Terminals, Inc., Lambert's Point Terminal Co., and the Southern Railway Co.

The complaint alleged that the handling charges assessed by the foregoing companies were unduly prejudicial to motor carriers and unduly preferential to other forms of transportation.

Manhattan Storage Secures Self-Insurer Authority

The I.C.C. on Nov. 26 approved the application of the Manhattan Storage and Warehouse Co., New York, for authority to qualify as a self-insurer under the motor carrier act of 1935. The company in its application stated that its desire to become a self-insurer is motivated by economy "and a more satisfactory settlement of claims."

The company has qualified as a self-insurer in New York, under compensation laws, by purchasing $25,000 of New York State bonds which were deposited with the Labor Department in Connecticut and Rhode Island as to motor carrier operations in these states.

As of Sept. 30, 1936, the Manhattan Storage and Warehouse Co. had total assets of $8,245,267. Fixed assets were $5,301,727, including trucks, $145,216; other equipment, $161,656; land, $1,300,578 and buildings, $3,694,275.

New Cuba Origin Marking Law

A NEW Cuban law, created Nov. 10, states that 6 mos. thereafter all industrial products placed on sale in the republic, whether of domestic production or imported must bear the name and address of the manufacturer on the outside of each unit in a visible place.

Western Steel

IT is predicted that the day is not far off when steel will be produced on the Pacific Coast. Cheap electric power is the answer, it is claimed. However, it is not expected that steel manufacturing there will become a major industry, due to light and scattered deposits of iron and the lack of coal. For years the lack of coal has prevented steel smelting on the Pacific, but with the completion of great power projects like Boulder Dam, Bonneville and Grand Coulee, electric smelting becomes a distinct possibility.

With all major cities of the West Coast states located on water, low cost transportation would also be expected to play an important part in the development of steel manufacturing.

Soybeans-Dairy Goods Competition

BECAUSE soybeans contain about 40 per cent protein and 20 per cent oil, the chief constituents of butter and cheese, they are becoming competitors of dairy industry products. It is stated that progress in widening the market for edible soybean oil has been steadily going forward despite its competition with other fats possessing good price differentials. However, for every pound of soybean oil produced, there are about 6 lbs. of meal to be disposed of.

Soybean milk will even sour to give a cheese-like curd which when pressed and ripened is called in the Orient "tofu." Although the flavor is strange, the milk can be used for cooking purposes in most of the ways in which cow's milk is used.

Carob Kernels—Gluten Substitute

THE seed kernels of the carob tree may be manufactured into a gluten-like product, possessing the same properties as wheat gluten. Externally, the gluten obtained differs from wheat gluten in its darker color. It may be decolorized by the action of dilute acid.

The gluten so obtained may be used, it is claimed, for alimentary purposes, for instance for the manufacture of articles in paste form, or of baked products rich in protein.

Profit Tax Change

MODIFICATION or elimination of the federal surtax on undistributed income is probable, according to economists. Legislators returning to Washington have had an "earful" of the inequities of the tax and many will be urging a change, it is stated.

The following faults have been found with the tax:

- 1—Failure to exempt corporations with impaired capital.
- 2—Inequality in general.
- 3—Failure to recognize that earnings may not be in a form available for distribution.
- 4—Adverse effect on present and future employment.
- 5—Pressure to make excessive dividend payments.

Kelp

KELP growths, found in abundance along the Maine coast, have been proved to be of great value to textile manufacturers, as kelp minimizes breakage in thread and provides a water-proofing agent. The cluster of organic colloids found in this gum produces a form of jelly that reduces scale in boilers. It also is expected to supply a source for the production of artificial rayon, and extracts from the gum are used to strengthen wrapping paper.

Dried Fruit

WASHINGTON, Oregon and California now supply 99 per cent of the national dried fruit output. Their total pack of dried fruit last year accounted for 450,600 tons of the nation's grand total of 453,000 tons.

Cut Flowers by Air Resist Freezing in New Wrapper

Cut flowers can be grown in California, shipped across the continent by air express, and arrive in near perfect condition as a result of a new wrapping process devised by the refrigeration specialists of the Bureau of Plant Industry.

The cold air of the stratosphere penetrates an ordinary package in unheated baggage compartments of a plane. This cold air is now used in "heating" the flowers to a point just above freezing—an ideal temperature for shipping.

The flowers are placed in an ordinary shipping box, which is wrapped with wax paper, and then with about 30 thicknesses of water-soaked newspapers. Another wax paper is wrapped about the wet paper to hold the moisture. The package is then put into a common pasteboard box, which is wrapped with about 15 thicknesses of dry newspaper and one thickness of heavy wrapping paper.

In the cold, rarefied atmosphere high over the Rocky Mountains the water-soaked paper starts freezing. Heat released by the freezing of water is released slowly inside the package, but retained by the outside wrapping and insulation of dry newspapers.

Flowers packed by this method are protected longer than ordinarily is required for a plane to fly from San Francisco to New York. The method can also be utilized for local shipments by rail or truck.

On account of its extra cost this method of protecting shipments is feasible only in the winter when flowers bring the highest prices.

55 Miles of Fence

THE Anchor Post Fence Co., Baltimore, Md., will ship 55 miles of 6-ft. chain link fence to the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California where the fence will be erected around the reservoirs and on both sides of the open sections of the Colorado River Aqueduct. More than 1,500 tons of steel will be required for the fence which will be made at the Baltimore and Los Angeles plants. Delivery will start May 1, 1938.

Scotch Whiskey Import Rate Up from $12.75 to $15

Trans-Atlantic freight rates on Scotch whiskey shipments will be increased Jan. 1 from $12.75 to $15 a measurement ton of 40 cu. ft. There are about 35 cases of Scotch whiskey to a measurement ton of 40 cu. ft.

The increase, it is believed, will stabilize rates which have been disturbed since May 1, when a non-conference operator invaded the trade and slashed the rate from $16.75 to $12.75 a ton.

Shipments of 60,000 and 70,000 cases in one vessel have not been uncommon this year, and one freighter recently arrived at New York with a cargo of 100,000 cases. It is expected that Scotch whiskey importations will run from 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 cases this year.

Glasgow is the main exporting center for whiskey, but large quantities are sent also to London and Liverpool for transshipment to New York and other U. S. ports.

It is stated that the rate increase agreement provides that the ship lines will not increase the rate except on 3 mos. notice, and then only after consultation with a committee of the importers' association.

M. & M. Closes Baltimore Terminal

The Merchants and Miners Transportation Co. has closed its Baltimore, Md., terminal due to inability of officials to agree with representatives of the International Longshoremen's Assn. on wages and working conditions.

Shutdown of operations followed enforced curtailment of all services to the South during the strike of longshoremen in southern parts.

Incorporated in Maryland 75 yrs. ago, the firm has a fleet of 22 freighters and combination passenger and freight ships operating along the coast.

The aggregated tonnage of the ships exceeds 80,000. The firm has in its employ approximately 3,300 persons. Ports served besides Baltimore include Newport News, Norfolk, Boston, Providence, Philadelphia, Savannah, West Palm Beach and Jacksonville.

Pa. Rail Rate Increase

THE rail carriers of Pennsylvania won a victory for increased freight rates on shipments of basic commodities, with the exception of anthracite, within the State, on Dec. 1. The State Public Utility Commission, in a 4-to-1 decision, reversed its previous stand and granted the advance in rates, effective Dec. 3, to bring intrastate freight charges to the same level as rates approved Oct. 19, last, by the I.C.C. on interstate shipments. The increase, it is estimated, would add to the rail carriers' revenue the tidy sum of $1,250,000.

The commodities allowed higher rates include bituminous coal, coke, iron ore, iron and steel products, cement, lime and petroleum and petroleum products.

The new intrastate rates are as follows:

Bituminous coal and coke, where rate per net ton is 75 cents or less—3 cents increase; 76 cents to $1—5 cents increase; over $1—10 cents increase.

Where rate per gross ton is 84 cents or less—3 cents; 85 cents to $1.12—5 cents; over $1.12—11 cents.

Iron ore, iron and steel articles where rate is 1 cent per 100 lbs.—6 cents per gross ton; 20 cents per ton—10 per cent maximum increase.

The commission on Nov. 10 refused to authorize the increase and ordered investigation into the reasonableness of the charges.

New Orleans Foreign Trade Zone Opposed Because of N. Y.

"New Orleans is watching the experiments in New York and Mobile, Ala., with foreign trade zones and if these two ports prove that the plan will bring new business we will adopt it, but we will certainly not do so unless there is an actual demand for such a zone and one can be established without destroying existing commercial bonded warehouses," states Col. Seymour Weiss, president of the New Orleans Dock Board, in response to queries regarding the possibility of a foreign trade zone in New Orleans.

"As far as we can see right now," Col. Weiss continued, "a foreign trade zone will not benefit our city as a port. New York, the first city to set up a zone, has had one in operation for 2 yrs., but it seems to be a dismal failure. We have questioned experts in foreign trade matters—shippers, exporters and importers—and all of the replies have opposed the idea."

Three previous experiments in increasing the facilities of the New Orleans port have proved unsatisfactory, he pointed out. A cotton warehouse which cost several million has been operated at a loss for several years. A grain elevator and a coal tippie, other experiments in the port authority operating commercial plants, have likewise been unprofitable investments. A foreign trade zone calls for considerable outlay of capital and, in the opinion of the Dock Board president, "is not worth the gamble," at least until it can be shown that such an undertaking would be successful.

First Wheat Via Missouri Barges

THE first cargo of wheat to be loaded at the Kaw Point Elevator at Kansas City, the Wheat Belt's only river-rail terminal, is on its way to Europe. The new river-rail elevator has been leased for 30 yrs. to the Hart-Bartlett-Sturtevant Grain Co. It is the only elevator which can transfer grain from freight car or truck directly to barges and accomplishes same with a 970-ft. conveyor-type loading gallery. Barges can be loaded at the rate of 20,000 bu. an hour.

The new facilities permit wheat to be moved to New Orleans at 15 cents a 100 lbs., half of the rail rate. The Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific have leased trackage up to the elevator. Kansas City's prospects as a winter wheat market have been increased by a decision made by the I.C.C. in a case suspended since 1923. It has been granted like privileges with Minneapolis on freight rates to the Central States. This area extends as far East as the western cities of both New York and Pennsylvania. Kansas City, however, still does not possess transit and storage privileges on grain, although this right has been restored to Minneapolis. An I.C.C. decision of 1935 removed this right. With transit privileges, grain may be processed and then reshipped at the through rate.

Luckenbach Gulf Service on Fortnightly Basis

LUCKENBACH boats on the Gulf trip are now on a fortnightly basis and the deadline for receipt of cargo is at noon on the day previous to sailing. It is stated that the Gulf Pacific Line is planning a similar change in its gulf intercoastal operation so as to have its sailings staggered with those of the Luckenbach Line.

New Rate Rule by Australian Lines

A NEW rule governing the application of rates has been adopted by the steamship services from the Atlantic coast to Australia and New Zealand. Under the new rule the steamship lines may quote rates to cover shipments during the current month and 3 succeeding months subject, however, to definite freight engagements being made by shippers within 14 days from date of quotation.

Pacific coast steamship services to Australia and New Zealand have adopted a similar rule.

Adds Pressure Type Barges to Fleet

THE John I. Hay Co. is adding four new barges of special type to the fleet which the company operates on the Mississippi and Illinois Rivers. These barges, of the combined tank and cargo type, are being constructed by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Co., the first of the group having been launched last October.

The barges, of welded plate construction throughout, are 180 ft. long and 36 ft. wide, having a capacity of 1,000 tons on a 7½-ft. draft. They are somewhat unique in that the lower or tank section is built of a series of cylinders, designed to withstand sufficient internal pressure to prevent evaporation loss, a problem which these barges were especially designed to overcome. This multiple-cylinder plan separates the barge into six compartments, each being fully equipped with valves and fittings that will withstand 15 lbs. per square inch pressure. The tops of the cylindrical tank sections are flattened, and with intermediate floor sections, form a level cargo deck surrounded by a welded plate railing with a division athwartships.

Great Lakes Transit Plans 1938 Service

The Great Lakes Transit Corp. will resume the Lake Michigan trade at the opening of navigation in 1938.

Monthly Service Out of New Orleans & S. America

The K Line has inaugurated a new monthly freight service from New Orleans to South American ports. The voyage from New Orleans to River Platte ports will require 24 days.

Resolutions Passed at 19th Convention of Mississippi Valley Assn.

THE following outstanding resolutions were passed at the 19th annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Assn. held at St. Louis, Nov. 22 and 23:

"The purposes and objectives of the Mississippi Valley Assn. are the promotion, encouragement and development of industry, commerce and agriculture in the area drained by the Mississippi River and its tributaries, and the promotion and development of foreign and domestic commerce."

"We advocate the development of all forms of transportation, whether railways, waterways, highways, airways or pipe lines. We believe that each form of transportation should be permitted to develop so as to be of the greatest service to the producing and consuming public, at rates in keeping with the cost of service performed by each. In order that agriculture, commerce and industry located inland from river ports may enjoy the economies of low cost water service we urge the extension of joint rail, water and truck rates. We commend the officers and members of the Valley Association for their opposition to the efforts of the railways to cancel existing joint rail and water rates."

"We advocate the elimination of unnecessary regulation upon all forms of transportation facilities, and we advocate relief from unreasonable taxes. We urge the retention of only such federal regulation as may be necessary to serve as a safeguard against unfair practices and unjust competition—only such regulation as will insure to the producing and consuming public the economies possible in each form of transportation."

"We have always opposed, and will continue to oppose, regulation of port-to-port rates upon our waterways or the charging of tolls upon waterway craft or commerce. These waterways are free public highways where any person who owns a boat may operate. Competition has and will regulate the rates, therefore, federal regulation of rates on inland waterways is not needed, not wanted, and would be contrary to public policy."

Lack of space prevents mention of many other resolutions.

Port of Boston to Benefit by Freight Change

BECAUSE they see increased port activity as one of the most available ways of boosting Boston business, officials and industrial leaders, as well as shipping men hailed news of the probabilities of nearly 100,000 additional tons of cargo a year being routed through this port in the near future.

This new business is that which the New England Steamship Co. formerly handled between New York and the Middle West, via the "differential route." This route is one of the oddities of the federally controlled freight pattern. Its effect is simply that it is cheaper to send certain freight unloaded in New York up through New England, across Canada and then down to points in the Middle West than it is to ship to the receiving point all-rail.

Until it went out of business recently, the New England Steamship firm, with headquarters in New Haven, brought the freight to New Haven from New York and trans-shipped it there.

Boston shipping men heard that the Ocean Steamship Co. (the Savannah Line) has applied for permission to haul such freight from New York to Boston. If the line is permitted to carry such freight and is successful in taking the place of the New England Steamship concern, it will mean, of course, added employment on the Boston waterfront, added revenues to the Boston and Maine Railroad, and the Canadian Pacific Railroad. Those familiar with the background of the case hope it might even mean more.

The news of the impending upswing was all the more welcome in view of the recent 6-week suspension of service by the Savannah Line because of labor trouble in Southern ports. Reports were then current in Boston that the Line's operating profit was so slim as to discourage extensive efforts to resume the service.

These reports were given some credence in view of the fact that the line is controlled by the Central of Georgia Railroad, which is now in receivership. This rail line, in turn, is controlled by the Illinois Central Railroad.

All these facts are of extreme interest in Boston which for years has clamored for real, aggressive trunk line rail service to the great agricultural and manufacturing regions in the central portion of the continent.

Toledo's Coal Loading Record

DOCKS at Toledo have a new coal loading record "in the bag" for 1937. Up to Nov. 1, the docks had dumped 19,195,377 tons of coal into vessels and that is 889,206 tons more than was handled in the same period last year, a previous high point. A new 24-hr. record was set by the Chesapeake & Ohio docks at Presque Isle when they filled thirteen freighters with 95,602 tons of coal in a single day. Although many of the ore docks of the Great Lakes closed early due to the abrupt slackening in the iron and steel trade, several coal ships continued to operate into early December and Toledo's total will probably go considerably over 20,000,000 tons for 1937.

Refuses To Suspend Ruling on Canned Food Cargoes

THE Maritime Commission announced that it has refused suspension of the proposed minimum quantity requirements of 250 tons per vessel on shipments of canned goods and related articles loaded and forwarded from specified warehouse piers at Bellingham, Wash., to Atlantic Coast ports.

Welland Canal Traffic Gain

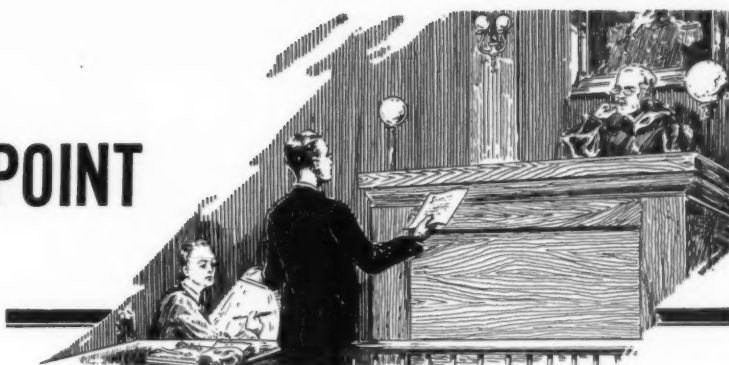

OVER a million and a half tons increase in freight carried through Welland Canal this season from the opening date in April until Oct. 31, is shown by figures just issued by the Canadian Government through the superintending engineer, C. W. West. The year's business has already established an all time record on the waterway. The totals to Oct. 31 are 10,459,475 tons, as against 8,897,049 from April to the end of October last year. The bulk of the freight, as in every other season, officials say, is coal and coke, with a total tonnage of 3,608,513, whereas last year's tonnage was 2,855,161. Grain comes second, as previously, with 3,094,624 tons this year and 2,529,583 during the same six months last year.

Iron Ore Moves Westward

THE first all-water-rail iron ore shipment by the Republic Steel Corp. from its recently leased New York State mines recently arrived in Cleveland in the 244-ft. Adrian Iselin. The ore was from the Withersbee-Sherman Corp. mines, floated by canal barges from Port Henry, N. Y., to Oswego and loaded into the Iselin, which is owned by George Hall Corp., Ogdensburg, N. Y. The ore is said to have a higher iron content than any from the Lake Superior district, and results from the 2,000-ton shipment will probably determine the extent of the water movement from these mines next season. Some of the ore was shipped immediately by rail to the Republic plants in Warren and Youngstown.

FROM THE LEGAL VIEWPOINT

By LEO T. PARKER

THIS MONTH'S IMPORTANT HIGHER COURT DECISIONS

State Law Controls Warehouse Charges

UNDER the circumstances that a warehouse industry is of vital interest to the general public, as the grain, cotton, or tobacco business, a state may pass a valid law limiting the warehouse charges.

For example, in Townsend v. Yeomans, 57 S. C. 842, it was disclosed that a suit was filed by a tobacco warehouseman to restrain the enforcement of a Georgia state law fixing maximum charges for handling and selling leaf tobacco.

In this case the warehouse charges were based upon the commissions that the warehouseman received for services; the fees paid to the auctioneers who sold the tobacco at public auction; and the weighing and handling fees.

In holding the law valid the Supreme Court of the United States said:

"... the Georgia statute deals with a local need, exercising the states protective power with respect to its own industry."

It proceeded to explain that one of Georgia's important industries is raising and selling tobacco.

Partner Personally Liable

VARIOUS courts have held that an official of a corporation, an employee of a firm, a member of a partnership, or other person, may be personally liable for the full payment of debts owed to creditors who extended credit on false representations of such official, employee, or other person.

For example, in Newark Company v. Fauer, 194 Atl. 270, New Jersey, the records show that a seller refused to extend credit to a partnership. Soon afterward a member of the partnership represented to the seller that the partnership owned the land and premises, in which their business was conducted, free and clear of incumbrances and that he owned the premises in which he lived, subject to a small mortgage.

Mr. Parker answers legal questions on warehousing, taxes and related matters.

Send him your problems care of this magazine. There will be no charge for the service.

Publication of inquiries and Mr. Parker's replies gives worthwhile information to the industry generally.

When the partnership failed to pay the account the seller sued the partner personally for the full amount of the debt.

The seller proved that the representation made by the partner was false, and that he knew that it was false when he made it. Also, it was proved that the business property of the partnership was incumbered to liens that totaled $45,000 and that the partner personally never owned the premises in which he lived.

In view of this testimony the higher court held the partner personally liable for full payment of the debt.

Agent Personally Liable

WHERE an agent or other representative signs a note, contract, or other written instrument when undertaking to bind a warehouseman, without authority to do so, such act imports fraud or culpable negligence, and results in the agent being responsible for the injury that may result from his act.

For illustration, in Gables v. Palmetto, 191 S. E. 337, it was shown that an employee named Thomason signed a note for his employer. This note was signed, "Palmetto Company, By M. C. Thomason."

With reference to the personal liability of Thomason, this is what the court said:

"In view of the fact that the divergence of opinion relates simply to the form of the remedy, conceding that the agent is liable, we prefer to follow the rule laid down in our own cases ... which hold the agent liable upon the contract. ... In other words, the employee (Thomason) as an unauthorized agent, if held at all, would have to be held liable individually upon the contract, and would be substituted for his principal, just as though he had been the maker of the note in the first instance."

In order to avoid litigation and liability warehouse employees should, before signing a contract, know that the warehouseman's name is in the body of the contract. Also, the signature must indicate that the employee was signing as representative of the warehouseman, as in this form:

"The Star Warehouse Company, Per J. W. Does, agent."

Heavy Damages Allowed

THE importance of warning motor truck drivers of their great responsibility is readily apparent by reference to a late case in which a motor truck owner was held liable for $30,500 damages.

In this case, Colonial Company, 103 S. W. (2d) 613, it was shown that a truck collided with an automobile seriously injuring four of the occupants. The injured persons proved that the truck was traveling on the wrong side of a highway.

Four injured persons sued the company for damages. The jury allowed $20,000 to one injured person; $15,000 to another; $10,000 to another; and $500 to another; or a total of $45,500.

The higher court reduced the total verdict from $45,000 to $30,500.

Red Flag Avoids Liability

IT is important to know that all owners of motor trucks may reduce their chances of liability for injuries caused by other vehicles colliding with the rear end of a truck, if a red flag is attached to the rear end of the truck or to the protruding end of the cargo.

For illustration, in Knigh v. Trogdon Truck Co., Inc., Washington, 71 Pac. (2d) 1003, it was shown that a ten-ton Sterling truck, owned by the Trogdon Truck Co., Inc., was pulling up a hill a trailer which had protruding from its rear end a piece of lumber. Another driver of a motor vehicle did not see the truck and trailer until, as he testified, he was within 10 ft. of the projecting timbers. He could not then avoid a collision, and the vehicle impaled itself upon one of the timbers, which completely wrecked the car and killed two occupants whose dependents sued the truck company for damages. The testimony proved that a piece of red bunting was tied upon the rear end of the timbers. Therefore, the higher court held the trucking company not liable, saying:

"The evidence shows beyond question that there was a flag on the end of the other timber and one on the reach. Beyond question, pieces of red bunting were displayed upon the end of the load, and we find nothing which justifies a finding that . . . any greater amount of red bunting on the rear of the load would have had the slightest influence in preventing the accident."

Liability For Fire Loss

THE legal problem often is presented: When is a warehouseman liable for loss of stored goods caused by fire? Usually the answer is: Only under circumstances when the warehouseman, or his authorized employees, failed to exercise ordinary care to prevent the fire, or to protect the goods against injury or loss.

On the other hand, let us consider variation of the law, and review several important late and leading higher court cases, as follows:

If a customer instructs a warehouseman to store goods in a certain location, or a specified warehouse, and the warehouseman fails to follow these instructions, then the warehouseman is liable for fire loss although he exercised great care to preserve the goods. (127 So. 277)

In a case where no one but the warehouseman and his employees were given access to a compartment, in a concrete warehouse, the court held the warehouseman liable for loss of the goods in the compartment caused by fire, because the warehouseman did not prove that the fire resulted notwithstanding the care that he had exercised. (9 S.W. 2d 822)

A warehouseman proved that all compartments in his warehouse were properly constructed to prevent fire; that the fire fighting apparatus in the warehouse was modern; that the nightwatchman was on duty and that he was alert just prior to discovery of the fire; and that all was done by the watchman and the warehouse employees to put out the fire that reasonably could have been done. The court, under these circumstances, held the warehouseman not liable in damages. (265 N.Y.S. 7)

In Tubbs Storage 297 S.W. 670, the court held that a warehouseman always is liable in damages for loss of stored goods caused by fire if the warehouseman fails to use modern means to prevent a fire or arrest its progress after its origin. In this case the court explained that modern means intended to arrest progress of a fire comprises sprinkling systems, fire extinguishers and the like. However, the court said that ordinary fire extinguishers are of little benefit, unless a night watchman is in the building to use them upon discovery of a fire.

A warehouseman failed to crate and ship goods on the day that he promised to do so. That night the goods were destroyed by fire. The court held the warehouseman liable, although he used care to prevent the fire. The point is the warehouseman had breached his contract with the owner of the goods, in failing to pack and ship the goods on the specified day. (166 Pac. 370)

Ordinarily, a warehouseman must prove that he used at least an "ordinary" degree of care to safeguard stored goods against loss by fire. In other words, if the owner demands delivery of his goods, and the warehouseman fails to make the delivery the latter must prove that he is not legally liable, otherwise he is bound to compensate the owner. (153 S.E. 397)

Proof in any manner that the warehouseman failed to use ordinary care, as a result of which the stored goods were destroyed by fire, entitles the owner to recover a judgment. (150 Atl. 408)

Right To Transport Liquor

IT is well established that Congress has surrendered to the States its exclusive right to control interstate commerce in intoxicating liquors to the extent defined in the Wilson and Webb-Kenyon Acts and the Reed Amendment. In other words, notwithstanding the fact that a shipment of intoxicating liquor is made interstate, the present state's laws may legally control the interstate shipment to the extent that liquors cannot be shipped into a state for use therein in violation of the state laws.

For example, the Supreme Court of the United States in United States v. Dan Hill, 248 U. S. 420, decided that although the laws of the state of West Virginia expressly authorize the transportation and use of a limited quantity of liquor for beverage purposes, the transportation of any quantity of liquor into West Virginia in violation of the Reed Amendment is punishable.

Also, in the case of United States v. Gudger, 249 U. S. 373, it was decided that although the Reed Amendment prohibited transportation of intoxicating liquor in interstate commerce "into" any state or territory, this law cannot be construed to mean that it prohibits the transportation through a state, as a mere incident to the transportation into another state, whether such transportation be by person, carriage or by common carrier.

Construing these various laws, amendments, and higher court decisions, it is illegal to transport intoxicating liquors from one state into another state whose laws prohibit the sale of such liquors. On the other hand, it is not illegal to transport intoxicating liquors through a "dry" state, or territory, where the liquor is ultimately delivered to a consignee in a locality in which it is legal to sell liquor.

The latest higher court case on this subject is Williams v. Commonwealth, 192 S. E. 795, reported Oct. 28, 1937. The facts disclose that a driver of a motor vehicle was arrested as he approached the corporate limits of Bristol, Va. He was directed to the police station in Bristol, where the vehicle was searched and a large quantity of whisky was found. It was seized and held as contraband whisky. The bottles containing the whisky had stamped upon them both federal and Kentucky revenue stamps. It was disclosed that the whisky had been sold in Corbin, Ky., by J. C. Lay Co., a wholesaler, to Hodgson Beverage Co., a retailer, of Baltimore, Md. The whisky was being transported at the time of the arrest through Virginia in interstate commerce destined for Baltimore.

The higher court held that the arrest was illegal, saying:

"The constitutional right and power to regulate commerce between the states had been held to be an exclusive right. Legislation, therefore, regulating such commerce must properly come from the Congress. . . . There is no suggestion anywhere. . . . that a state can lawfully prohibit the transportation of intoxicating liquor through such state. . . . The failure of the plaintiff (carrier) to have a transportation permit for his shipment and his failure to post the bond required did not constitute an infraction of any valid criminal law of the Commonwealth."

Liability for Theft or Burglary of Goods

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: When is a warehouseman liable for theft or burglary of stored goods? Is it necessary to hire a night watchman. West Storage Company.

Answer: Warehousemen are required by law to exercise "ordinary" care to safeguard stored merchandise against theft and burglary. The legal definition of "ordinary care" is that degree of care which would be exercised by the average prudent and experienced warehouseman under the same circumstances.

The courts have stated that a warehouseman should equip his warehouse with efficient burglar systems; hire a night watchman; and use other modern means designed to prevent theft and burglary. However, if a night watchman is taken by surprise and thieves force entrance to the warehouse, the warehouseman is not ordinarily liable because he used "ordinary care" when he provided a competent watchman. If a warehouse is equipped with an efficient burglar alarm and thieves cut the wires to the alarm the warehouseman would not ordinarily be liable for theft of articles from the warehouse.

Liability for Sold Goods—Customer Notice Sent

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: Can you inform me whether a warehouseman is liable for conversion where stored goods are sold at auction and the owner of the goods proves that he did not receive notice that the goods were to be sold? We follow the law and advertise the sale and also send a written notice in accordance with the requirements of the state law. The Willow Warehouse Company.

Answer: The courts have held that where a warehouseman sends a notice by registered mail and it is returned by the postal authorities as "unclaimed," the warehouseman is not liable for conversion if he properly addressed the notice to the owner of the goods in accordance with the last address supplied by the customer.

In other words, a warehouseman is liable for conversion if he sells stored goods after giving the owner notification strictly in accordance with the law, if the owner actually does not receive the notification, and the warehouseman did not properly address the notice. See late case of 70 Pac. (2d) 670, where a warehouseman was held liable for conversion because the notification letter was not addressed in care of the man named by the customer, although the correct state, city and street address was included.

Advantages of Incorporating Warehouse Business

LEGAL EDITOR, DandW: Now, that we have increased our space, we desire to know the advantages of incorporating our warehouse business. Thanks, for this information. Ben Deike.

Answer: A corporation is liable only for the amount of the incorporation. In other words, assume that you incorporate for $75,000.00. If for any reason there should arise liabilities for $100,000.00, the stockholders cannot be held liable beyond the holdings of their stock which is $75,000.00. Then again, in a corporation the directors have the control of the company, whereas in a partnership, or individual control, only those who have the ownership have a right to control the various activities of the business. Another advantage of a corporation is a saving in taxation, if the corporation is properly organized.

In a partnership the partner who has the money in his name is liable to the full extent of all obligations, if the other partners become insolvent, whereas in a corporation, each stockholder is liable individually according to the amount or value of the stock that he holds. Furthermore, if you have incorporated your business, and you need more capital, then you have the privilege of selling stock to supply this needed additional capital, provided that you follow the laws very strictly of your state. In other respects, a corporation is less liable for losses through suits, but this phase of the law is complicated and your lawyer can explain the details to you. Then again, assume that an individual owns a business, and he placed in charge a manager who oversteps his authority, the individual may be liable in many instances, and under varied circumstances, where a corporation may avoid liability.

Limitation of Clause Void

VARIOUS courts have held that a clause in a warehouse receipt is void although the owner of stored goods had agreed to limit the warehouseman's liability for an amount stated in the receipt, if the warehouseman is guilty of conversion.

For illustration, in Menuez v. Julius, 19 F. Supp. 7, it was disclosed that a warehouseman inserted in a warehouse receipt a clause as follows: "Any dispute or claim arising out of or for the breach of this agreement shall be settled by arbitration. . . ." It further provided that the arbitrator could not hold the warehouseman liable for more than the amount specified in the receipt which limited the liability.

When the owner of the goods demanded delivery of his goods, the warehouseman failed to comply with the demand. The owner sued the warehouseman. The court said:

"In an action for conversion, where the warehouseman is the alleged wrongdoer, the limitation of liability clause in the warehouse receipt does not constitute a valid defense. The limitation clause . . . should be construed as not intended . . . to apply to the case of conversion. . . ."

o o o

Tenant Not Responsible

VARIOUS courts have held that a bailee, as a warehouseman, never is entitled to a lien on goods delivered by a person who is not the lawful owner of such goods, unless a state law clearly and unmistakably authorizes the lien.

For example, in Hackett v. California, 45 Pac. (2d) 833, it was disclosed that a California state law provides that bailees have a general lien, dependent on possession, upon all personal property in their hands belonging to a customer, for the balance due from such customer for services.

The owner rented a furnished house to a tenant who ran up an unpaid bill with a bailee. The bailee had in his possession certain goods which were part of the furnishings of the house, on which he claims a lien not only for services rendered these particular articles, but also for previously accrued charges against the tenant.

The owner of the house and furnishings filed suit against the bailee to recover possession of the furnishings. The counsel for the property owner contended that the bailee was not entitled to a lien, first, because the furnishings did not belong to the tenant, and second, because the property owner had not given the bailee authority to perform the services.

Although the lower court held the bailee entitled to a lien, the higher court reversed the verdict.

MOTOR TRANSPORT

I.C.C. Must Reconcile Conflicts in Express Agencies Services

WHILE counsel for Railway Express Agency was heatedly arguing the "injustice" of an examiner's report which declared truck operations of railroad companies are subject to the Motor Carrier Act except where specifically a part of terminal operation, Southeastern Express Co., engaged in identical service, filed application for certificates of convenience and necessity under the Act.

To accept the examiner's report would require rejection of Southeastern's applications, since it would establish the ordinary operations of those services as subject to Part 1 of the Interstate Commerce Act. The Commission therefore took both questions under advisement, and is seeking to reconcile the two conflicting viewpoints.

"Transportation cannot exist half regulated and half unregulated, and any discrimination in regulation unjustly freeing a carrier from controls simply because of rail connections, ownership, or background violates the very essence of the scheme of intended controls.

"Congress did not intend to let the trucks of rail, water and express companies escape completely any controls as to hours of labor of its employees.

"Congress did not intend to allow trucks, just because they were owned by a railroad or express company, to travel the highways without responsibility of obeying the same safety rules applied to all others. Nor did it intend to allow rail carriers and express companies to run their own trucks or hire facilities without any responsibility to comply with rules for the security of the public.

"It cannot accurately be said that the act was designed not to impose additional regulation. It was designed to equalize regulation. Therefore, it was necessary to include, as Congress did, motor carrier operation of express carriers, to the extent they were not already regulated."

Railway Express Agency was of a different mind. Its counsel argued: "There are many differences in certificates, hours, accounting records, depreciation charges, safety regulations, and every other form of regulation the Commission might impose under the Motor Carrier Act.

"Leave those carriers who were under Part 1 under Part 1. There was no necessity to increase regulation for those carriers, but there was a necessity to regulate motor carriers and it was done by the Motor Carrier Act.

"If we use any form of transportation: if we use motor vehicles, there is plenty of jurisdiction under Part 1 to regulate that transportation. Its rates, etc., and if there is any question of entering competition with truck operators you have power under Part 1 to regulate it."

National Truck Show in N. Y.

The National Truck Show for 1938 will be held in New York City, Nov. 9 to 16.

Indiana Signal Law Not Effective Until Feb. 1

Enforcement of the 1937 law requiring trucks to be equipped with mechanical turn signals will be delayed until after Feb. 1, 1938. The law requires all trucks to be equipped with a mechanical device to denote in which direction the truck plans to turn. The devices would cost about $25 a set.

Judge Joseph R. Williams of the Superior Court, before whom a restraining suit on the truck signal law is pending, has stated that a hearing will be held in January to give both the state and the trucking interests an opportunity to appeal the decision of the higher court before the deadline of Feb. 1, tentatively fixed as the date for the state to begin prosecution for violations under the new law.

Arkansas-Louisiana Reciprocity

Arkansas and Louisiana have reached a reciprocal agreement permitting free passage of trucks back and forth between the two states without trip permits when the load belongs to the truck owner.

I. C. C. Order on United Van Effective Jan. 13

The Interstate Commerce Commission on an order issued Dec. 2, denies all United Van Service and the Visceglia family, applications for I.C.C. certificates, permits, etc., to operate an interstate moving business. The order becomes effective Jan. 13, 1938.

By the terms of this order:

"... United Van Service, (a New Jersey corporation) ... Connie Putignano (d/b/a All American Van Service, New York City) ... Frank Visceglia, (d/b/a United Van Service, New York City, Ace United Van Service, Jersey City, N. J. ... Joseph Visceglia, (d/b/a Great Eastern Van Co., New York City) ... KandE De Luxe Padded Van Co., Inc. and Vincent Visceglia, are hereby, notified and required to cease and desist, on or before Jan. 13, 1938, from all operations as common carriers by motor vehicle, contract carriers by motor vehicle or brokers for which certificates of Public Convenience and Necessity, Permits or Licenses are required by the provisions of the Motor Carrier Act, 1935."

Illinois Signal Law

The new provision for signalling on trucks to be enforced in Illinois Jan. 1 reads in part as follows:

"65. When signal is required: (a) No person shall turn a vehicle from a direct course upon a highway unless such movement can be made with reasonable safety and then only after giving a clearly audible signal by sounding the horn, if any pedestrian may be affected by such movement, or after giving an appropriate signal in the manner hereinafter provided in the event any other vehicle may be affected by such movement. (b) A signal of intention to turn right or left shall be given during not less than the last 100 ft. traveled by the vehicle before turning. (c) No person shall stop or suddenly decrease the speed of a vehicle without first giving an appropriate signal in the manner provided herein to the driver of any vehicle immediately to the rear when there is opportunity to give such signal." The provision then gives method of hand signal and procedure when signal devices are used. All mechanical signal devices must be self-illuminated when in use.

Wash. Truckers Must Pay $8 Each for New Tariffs

Every motor freight operator in the state of Washington has been ordered to pay the sum of $8 each in order to secure copies of the new freight tariff that gives in detail the specific charges he must make. It is believed that such an order is revolutionary in public regulation of carriers.

That the carriers must remit for the copies has been included in the legislation recently passed. Copies must be posted in such a manner as to be publicly available for inspection at headquarters or principal office, and by payment of $8 for each one additional, similar copies must be posted in every office where freight is received.

Connecticut Ruling Makes Single Rate Mandatory

The Connecticut Public Utilities Commission has ruled that truckers cannot have more than one rate for the same or similar services. An order governed by this ruling was given the Thames River Line, Inc., recently. The commission holds that a practice of charging one rate for goods shipped from Naugatuck Valley points to Bridgeport, as part of an interstate shipment to be completed by water to New York, and charging a much higher rate for the same goods if shipped from the same points of origin to Bridgeport and no farther, is contrary to the Commission's policy.

Department Conducted by

F. EUGENE SPOONER

The company has been ordered also to file new rate schedules for intrastate traffic that are identical with rates charged on interstate traffic for the same or similar service. The new schedule must be filed at once. The Thames River Line, Inc., does all manner of carrying both by motor trucks and boats, but unlike many freight transporting companies can accept goods for truck water shipment. Intrastate rates for this type of commerce are on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Detroit Selected for Next A.T.A. Convention

The next convention of American Trucking Associations, Inc., will be held in Detroit. While the time for the convention was not determined, opinion was expressed that the meeting should be held in January, 1939, inasmuch as some of the large equipment manufacturers had expressed a preference for that time, in the event that the A.T.A. decides to hold another truck and accessories show.

Illinois-Michigan Reciprocity Pact

Officials of Illinois and Michigan have signed reciprocal agreements, granting full reciprocity for interstate trucks from one of those states into the other. Permits must be secured, but will be issued without cost.

Signed agreements granting reciprocity between interstate operators of Illinois and the states of Indiana and Ohio are expected.

Governor Townsend of Indiana has signed the reciprocity agreement between Michigan and Indiana, forging another link in the four-state pact.

Can't Renew Service Stopped Because of Strike

OPERATORS of Motor Freight Express, York, Pa., today have reason to ponder over the vagaries of the fates that govern modern business, as reflected in Federal procedure.

The express company found it judicious to cancel its operations between York and Jersey City, N. J., because of a strike. And now the Interstate Commerce Commission, through Examiner A. F. Borroughs, refuses to permit it to recoup its losses by renewing the service.

The commission examiner takes the view that the company should not have stopped operating during the strike. From the middle of December, 1936, to the latter part of February the York firm discontinued operations because of labor difficulties, offered to sublease its Jersey City terminal and notified employees and the public that its services in the territory were permanently discontinued.

Motor Freight Express contends its acts were for the primary purpose of deflating its employees' strike activities and that in fact it had no intention of ceasing business in the territory. Upon resumption of operations, agreements were drawn up with employees giving them the option of purchasing the trucks upon payment of an agreed purchase price providing the vehicles were used exclusively in the company's business. Under the agreements, title to the equipment remained in applicant until payment of the purchase price.

"The issue here presented is whether interruption of service resulting from labor difficulties is one over which applicant had no control within the meaning of section 206 (a) of the act," reasoned the commission examiner. "This question is of primary importance in view of recent labor controversies throughout the country. As a practical matter it seems logical that before the provisions of the act can be pleaded in this respect, applicant must be able to show that every reasonable precaution was taken to forestall a strike and to keep operations in effect without involving personal injury to its employees or others or the depreciation or destruction of its property.

"In the instant case, little attempt apparently was made to continue operation and applicant to all outward indications ceased activities indefinitely if not permanently.

"It must be concluded, therefore, that applicant has failed to show continuous operation east of Newark, N. J., subsequent to June 1, 1935, as the interruption of service during the period described is not one over which it had no control." (H. M. Manning.)

Rawlinson Re-elected President Allied Van Lines, Ltd.

At the annual meeting of Allied Van Lines, Ltd., held Dec. 10 at Montreal, M. A. Rawlinson was re-elected president as were the following: J. B. Baillargeon, vice-president; C. F. B. Tippet, treasurer; Wm. Picard, secretary, and P. G. Heyward, manager. The firm of F. B. Dixon & Co., London, Ont., was made an agent during the year.

Lower Truck Rates Out of Muskogee, Okla.

Lower truck transportation rates on certain commodities to be shipped from and to Chicago, East St. Louis and St. Louis became effective Sept. 15, in Muskogee, Okla., as a result of a petition filed by the Muskogee Merchants and Manufacturers Traffic bureau, Ted Schwachhofer, bureau manager, announced recently.

The new tariffs will equalize Muskogee's rates with those of Tulsa on such items as acids, alcohol, ammunition, small arms, candy, containers, dairy products and binder twine and will also establish lower basis of rates on canned goods from Muskogee to Springfield, St. Louis and Kansas City, Missouri and to Chicago, Schwachhofer said.

The bureau protested new commodity rates published early in the summer by the Powell Brothers truck line gave Tulsa a preferential rate on items listed above.

Philadelphia Truck Zone Limits Set

So far as the Federal Bureau of Motor Carriers is concerned, the Philadelphia commercial zone, as recommended by Federal Examiner A. J. Sullivan, for adoption by the Interstate Commerce Commission, comprises seven Pennsylvania and two New Jersey municipalities.

The zone takes in the territory within the corporate limits of Philadelphia, Darby, Upper Darby, Ridley, Tinicum, Chester and Lower Chichester, Pa.; and Camden and Gloucester City, N. J.

Determination of the zone limits is regarded as important to truck operators because their business within the area mentioned will be exempt from all regulation under the Motor Carrier Act, except that covering safety and hours of employee-service. Truckers under a common control or arrangement for continuous shipment beyond the zone will not be exempted.

The Philadelphia zone limits were the subject of extensive hearings earlier in the year.

Examiner Sullivan, in making his recommendations, pointed out that differing limits suggested by various parties in interest ranged from confinement to Philadelphia's city limits to the inclusion of points as far distant as Trenton, N. J.

Washington Rates Increased

The applications of Washington State motor freight carriers for rate increases before the Department of Public Service, Oct. 27 to Nov. 19, has brought forth numerous increases in commodity rates, cancellation of some commodity rates, increase of minimums and general elimination of any-quantity rates, cancellation of many exceptions, and revision of the minimum charge rule.

The application for a 20 per cent increase in class rates was denied. In all, 12 applications were denied, 25 withdrawn or dismissed, and 266 granted.

The rate increases as ordered by the department became effective Jan. 1, 1938, at which time the existing emergency charges were expired.

The changes are effective generally throughout the state, both east and west of the Cascades, and between eastern and western intrastate points.

Many of the commodity rate increases approximate 10 per cent. Where commodity rates were entirely cancelled, class rates are to apply. Some instances are found in which the actual rate increase, due to cancellation of either commodity rates of class rate exceptions, will amount to considerably more than 10 per cent.

Few if any any-quantity commodity rates will remain in Washington intrastate tariffs. Most minimum quantities specified in the order range upward from 5000 lbs., although some instances of 2000-lb. minimums are found.

The minimum charge rule as approved by the Washington department is identical with that found in Western Classification.

New Keeshin Terminal

Keeshin Motor Express Co. will construct a new brick and concrete trucking terminal at the southwest corner of Dublin Ave. and Hanover St., Columbus, Ohio. The terminal will be 130 by 150 ft. E. V. Eckenrode is manager of the branch.

Connecticut Drivers Back at Work

A 3-mo. strike of 1,200 eastern Connecticut truck drivers was settled last month with an agreement on wage increases and regulation of working hours, but no agreement on a closed shop, which was one of the strikers' demands.

Under the settlement, the normal work week for drivers was set at 48 hrs., and wage increases were made retroactive to Sept. 29. The strike was called Sept. 7.

Time and one-half for overtime in excess of 54 hrs. for over-the-road drivers was provided, with the same scale to be used for holiday work. The 6½-hr. time schedule for the New York-Hartford trip was retained.

night delivery can be made by truck, provided they are in touch with reliable trucking concerns and do not have too early a deadline for picking up merchandise to be delivered." And one thinks that it is "better to have fewer warehouses than many spot stocks."

When it is remembered that all the shippers here quoted are outstanding firms in the industrial field and are actual users of public warehouses, some having used them for a considerable number of years, it becomes clear that even though the criticisms may not set so well, it may nevertheless be well to give thoughtful consideration to them. Encouraging, however, is the fact that all those questioned agreed that the public warehouse fills a need and that it is a valuable link in the distribution of merchandise.

Truck Rates Revised on Hauling at Los Angeles

Harbor hauling rates at Los Angeles, Cal., have been leveled off, giving reductions on large shipments and increases on small shipments. Interstate rates are the same basis as intrastate rates, the I.C.C. giving approval to the Local and Proportional Freight Tariff No. 1 of the Southwestern Motor Tariff Bureau.

The new tariffs provide a $1 minimum charge on all shipments to and from docks at the Los Angeles port in place of the 85-cent minimum that formerly applied to the wholesale district and the $1.10 minimum that formerly applied to the retail and Hollywood districts.

Seatrains Tieup with Pacific Coast Withdrawn

TRANSCONTINENTAL carriers who proposed last month to make the Seatrain Lines a party to import tariff 30 in connection with the movement of import traffic from north Pacific Coast ports and Vancouver to New Orleans, and thence Seatrain Lines to New York, have withdrawn this proposal.

The proposal was originally sponsored by the Milwaukee Road and the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island and Louisiana and Arkansas has indicated willingness to participate in routing in connection with Seatrain Lines. Transcontinental rail officials regarded the proposal as threatening a sharp upheaval of long established rate relationships in handling of import traffic from New York City, according to the Pacific Coast to both the central western and eastern territories. The proposal contemplated making basis four (Chicago) rates applicable to Hoboken Piers, N. J., of the Seatrain Lines and to industries, piers, freight houses, and team tracks on Hoboken Manufacturers Railroad which is controlled by the Seatrain.

The Morgan Line, Southern Pacific subsidiary, which for many years has been handling import traffic from the Pacific Coast via its steamer service from the Gulf to New York countered the Seatrain proposal by applying for appropriate differential rates to offset its break-bulk handling of cargo as against loading and unloading intact of railroad cars by Seatrain.

Chilean Nitrate Expands

The Chilean Nitrate Sales Corp., 120 Broadway, New York City, has signed a contract for the building of new warehouses, dock facilities and railroad sidings at the Port of Norfolk, Va., at a cost in excess of $300,000.

The new facilities are made necessary by the increased demand for nitrate, and will make it possible for the company to serve its fertilizer and industrial customers more efficiently in the area supplied from Norfolk.

Midway Chemical Formed

The Midway Chemical Co. is being organized and incorporated in Philadelphia to manufacture and deal in floor waxes, polishes, fungicides and insecticides.

Hungarian Canned Hams

The American consulate at Budapest reports that an important American firm of meat packers has taken a 10-yr. lease on a factory in the trans-Danubian district with plans to slaughter from 35,000 to 50,000 hogs a year, producing canned ham and bacon for export to the United States.

California Storage Assn. Discusses Concealed Damages and Claims

At its meeting held Nov. 18, the California Storage Assn. discussed pro and con the question of packing, damages and claims. A claim agent, representing several intercoastal steamship lines, was a guest speaker. He stated that in a great number of cases the damages to furniture, etc., had been incurred before the goods were even shipped and believed that most of the claims troubles came from non-professional packing.

Henry Burgeson of the Bekins Van & Storage brought out the fact that approximately 75 per cent of the tonnage originates with the better warehousemen and that the other 25 per cent should be checked in order to minimize adjustment claims.

Rodney Sprigg, president of the association, turned the meeting over to Mr. Burgeson to be continued on a question and answer basis. The condition of poor packing at the point of origin was discussed. The point was brought up that it would be a good idea to have a detailed report made out before the goods were shipped and another report made out when the goods arrived. In that way an exact check on damages incurred in transit could be accomplished.

The question was asked, "What good is the released valuation of 10 cents a lb. in the case of concealed damage if the steamship companies do not accept liability?" Damage is often done in the loading in and loading out of the hold of the ship and not discovered until the goods are unpacked. When asked whether they as claim agents would take the word of the warehouse company that at the time of unpacking at the residence concealed damage was found, the steamship claim agent evaded the question by bringing up the fact that the van containing the goods must necessarily be strong enough to contain them.

When the point was brought up that no matter how tightly warehousemen may pack their goods in the van there is enough shift to scratch and mar the furniture if improperly packed, the claim agent said that he had never seen a van unloaded and would like to know how it was packed. The procedure was explained to him.

The way in which claims are settled is to pay on a basis of the proportion of the total value against the release valuation. Ten cents release valuation on the total loss of a piece.

For example: A table weighing 100 lbs. is damaged. All goods, of course, released at $10 per cwt. In this particular case the cost of repair is $10. The S. S. claim agent asks the customer the value of the table and is told $200. The agent then advises that the claim will be settled as follows: declared value on release $100, actual value $200. Total claim under release $10 due to 50 per cent declaration of value. Customer only entitled to 50 per cent of claim or $5.

A motion was made and unanimously carried that a letter be written by the California Storage Assn. to the freight claim agents of the steamship lines requesting that better cooperation exist between the claim agents and the warehousemen in regard to inspections, and also asking that some agreement on the problem of concealed damage be reached.

5-Day Free Storage Maximum at Los Angeles Piers

A MAXIMUM of 5 days' free storage of waterborne goods in the municipal piers has been set by the Los Angeles Harbor Commission. A fee will be levied after this period has expired, unless the commission approves written applications for extension of free time. The subject of free storage was considered after complaints by private warehousemen that the city was too generous in granting pier space to locally-consigned cargoes.

$1,000,000 Warehouse for Atlanta on Depot Site

A seven-story cold and merchandise storage warehouse to be erected at a cost of nearly $1,000,000 has been planned on the site of the old Union depot in Atlanta, Ga.

Outlines of the plans for the structure were announced recently by J. G. Robertson, Kansas City, director of the bureau of marketing extension of the United States Cold Storage Corp.

The legislature will be asked to pass upon a lease to the Dixie Building Terminal Co., a subsidiary of the United Cold Storage Corp., which, if granted, will give the company the right to go ahead with the construction.

It is stated that 7 yrs. ago the company entered into a contract with the state to build an even larger building. However, the depression halted construction, and $50,000 deposited to guarantee completion was ordered forfeited by the general assembly in its regular session.

The new building will occupy the Central Ave. frontage of the old Union depot site and use approximately 50 per cent of the total site area, the balance of the site to be reserved by option for a reasonable length of time to protect future protection.

The first unit will extend 156 ft. on Central Ave. and 182 ft. on Wall St. It will be 7 stories high, constructed of brick and concrete, sprinklered, and will contain 194,760 sq. ft. of floorspace of which 97,260 will be cold storage, 42,900 for loft space, stores 8,580, corridors 6,480, elevators and stairs 6,220, platform, tracks, etc., 26,700. A 250-lb. floor load is planned. Under the terms of the lease, the building becomes the property of the state upon its erection.

The cost is estimated at $854,642.

Prater of Kenton, Ohio, in New Structure

The Prater Transfer Co., Kenton, Ohio, has moved into its new quarters on West Franklin St. on the site formerly occupied by the St. Nichols hotel, which was badly burned about a year ago. The building has been completely remodeled and rebuilt to suit the needs of the transfer and storage company.

DREADNAUGHT PADS ARE BETTER:

BECAUSE fast color, made from U.S. Army specifications, will not fade or run. Fast color actually strengthens the material, and gives longer wear plus cleaner and better looking pads.

BECAUSE they have hundreds of small 3 inch squares, giving greater quilting and preventing the filling from breaking, shifting, or bunching. The smaller the squares, the longer the wear.

BECAUSE the single layer of felt is a strong, supple filler which gives positive protection and can take all kinds of abuse.

BECAUSE with Uni-Welt construction, the heavy welt edge binding, they are protected where the reinforcement is needed most.

First Removal Job for N. Y. World Fair

The New York World's Fair of 1939 has just gone through a moving day experience, all handled by the Chelsea Fireproof Storage Warehouses.

The executive and administration offices were moved into the administration building, the first building completed on the actual fair site.

The entire operation required the use of 26 trucks and 60 men in addition to 12 packers, who were used for the packing of stationery, records, etc. A special ramp and platform was erected by the Chelsea workmen before the administration building.

New Device for Handling Small Lots

A device for handling the many small pieces in the average household goods lot has been invented and patented by C. C. Stetson, Fidelity Storage & Transfer Co., St. Paul, Minn.

Two full-size working models are now being used in the Fidelity warehouse. Mr. Stetson states that the device—which is similar to a large packing box—saves at least 1 hr. for two men on incoming lots at the warehouse, and little less on lots going out. By a special shaping of the ribs which form the frame work of the carrier, the weight is carried mainly upon the front two-thirds of the base ribs and this permits it to be easily pulled back upon the truck.

New Fruehauf Body

A new trailer body is being produced by the Fruehauf Trailer Co., Detroit. The new body, known as the "F" type, incorporates all-metal, rust-resistant roof, die-formed front scroll and rear-header and special high grade steel panels. The roof is said to reflect more of the sun's rays than a canvas type, protecting the load from excessive heat.

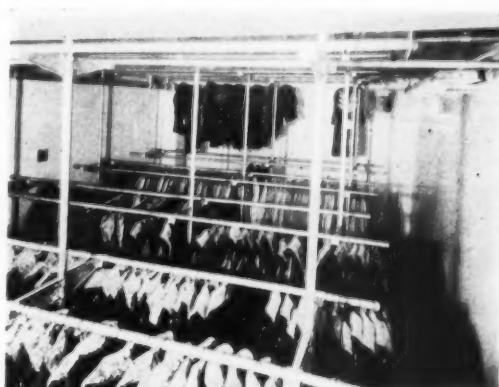

A special layer of plywood behind the panels is designed to eliminate waves in panels, and prevent rumbling, while the space between this interlining and the regular plywood lining of the body, affords insulation. In case of accident, only the affected parts need be replaced. "Snap-on" moldings are used throughout, so that any panel may be removed without disturbing another.

"Hallowell" Steel Trucks are made to withstand the toughest treatment. Their steel platforms can't splinter—they're fire proof—and their welded construction assures permanently rigid joints. Wheels have smooth bores or anti-friction bushings in hubs and casters, and perfectly lubricated, so they're much easier to handle.

HERE'S YOUR ANSWER

for safe, easy handling of Barrels and Drums with

LESS WORK, LESS WEAR, MORE SPEED

PUT one of Colson's new Universal Drum Trucks on your shipping platform or in your warehouse and watch every trucker go for the Colson first.

Here's a truck that provides the fastest, safest means of handling any barrel or drum. No lifting is required, either in loading or unloading. The operator only maintains balance and pushes the truck. All the load is carried over the wheels.

Rugged, all steel welded construction gives you a truck able to stand up under hard, continuous use. Wheels are ball bearing, either steel or rubber tired. The hook can be instantly adjusted and set for barrels or drums from 24 to 40 inches in height. Handles are shaped to protect the operator at all times. Write for complete specifications.

Investigate the Colson Lift Jack, too

Another Colson materials handling system that will cut handling costs and make work easier is the Colson Lift Jack with Colson two-wheeled platforms. Introduced just a short time ago, hundreds of these jacks and platforms are in use, turning dead storage space into live load. You can start a Colson Lift Jack system with one jack and several platforms for as little as $150.00. Ask us to send you the booklet, "Colson System of Material Handling."

ABBREVIATIONS

The abbreviations used in the listings for this Shippers' Directory are explained in this alphabetical tabulation which is divided into three classifications, namely: General Abbreviations, Abbreviations of Railroads and Waterways and Abbreviations of Associations.

For your further guidance, the star ★ appearing in a listing signifies that the information has been attested before a Notary Public—that the facts and figures were sworn to by the warehouse executive supplying the same. All listings set in bold face type identify warehouses whose advertising you will find in every issue of D & W.

Those set in light face type identify those warehouses who ads appear in this Directory only.

Non-advertisers are listed in a single line of light face type.

Any questions concerning this service or suggestions for its improvement will be welcomed by the publishers.

Commerce of Jefferson City Increases Freight Service

The Commerce Cartage Co., Jefferson City, Mo., warehouse, has taken over the Cole Motor Service, Inc., which renders daily freight service to 100 Central Missouri towns south of the Missouri River.

A. J. Crooks in Charge at Kansas City

Alfred J. Crooks is now in charge at Kansas City, Mo., for the Crooks Terminal Warehouses, Inc. This position was taken over after the death of his brother, Joseph F. Prior to coming to Kansas City, Mr. Crooks was stationed at Los Angeles for 3 yrs. He and his elder brother, Harry D., started in the warehousing business back in 1913.

When the war broke out, Arthur J. enlisted as a marine and after the war was over, returned to the firm to take over executive work. He is about 38 yrs. old and is a follower of athletic sports of all kinds.

Sammis Leaves Murray

W. A. Sammis of Kansas City, Mo., who, although he is only 43 yrs. old, can be classed as one of the veterans of the warehousing industry; has severed his connection with the W. E. Murray Transfer & Storage Co., Kansas City, and is seeking a new connection.

Mr. Sammis has had approximately 25 yrs. of service in the warehousing industry, 20 yrs. of which were in the service of the Central Storage Co., Kansas City, an exclusive merchandise warehouse. He was vice-president and general manager of that company for several years. Since then he has been connected with the Murray company as vice-president.

Petry on N. J. Highway Board

Frederick Petry, Jr., of Petry Express & Storage Co., Trenton, N. J., has been elected second vice-president of the New Jersey Highway Users Conference.

Pennsylvania Warehousing Moves to New Offices

The Pennsylvania Warehousing and Safe Deposit Co., Philadelphia, has leased the first floor and mezzanine of the Brown Bldg., southeast corner of 4th and Chestnut Sts. Its general offices have been opened in the new location. The old quarters at 111-13 So. 3rd St. have been occupied since 1889.

T & P Terminal Opens Dallas Branch

The Texas and Pacific Terminal Warehouse Co. has opened a branch warehouse at Dallas, Texas, located on Pacific Ave. at Hawkins St. It is operated under the same name as the Fort Worth business.

The branch consists of 60,000 sq. ft. of merchandise space and is devoted to the storage of merchandise with some space for office rentals.

Office space is air-conditioned. Dock space for in and out l.c.l. runs the full length of the building of 150 ft. Along the Hawkins St. side is vacant property about 75 ft. by 150 ft. which gives ample room for servicing for local deliveries. The property has facilities for a four-car spot inside the building and additional space for spotting three cars.

L. C. Porter is general manager although he continues to maintain his permanent office at the Fort Worth house. R. P. Ricker, who has been with the T & P Terminal at Fort Worth since it opened, is the resident manager of the Dallas branch. C. V. Deakins succeeds Ricker at Fort Worth as office manager.

Mobile Longshoremen Join C.I.O.

Two locals in Mobile, Ala. have seceded from the International Longshoremen's Assn. of the American Federation of Labor and will accept a charter from the C.I.O.'s International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

This is the second break within a short time in the ranks of the I.L.A., the first taking place when the Associated Marine Workers, claiming a membership of 2500 employed on towboats and other craft in New York Harbor, quit the United Marine Division of the I.L.A. for the C.I.O.'s new Inland Boatmen's Division of the Atlantic and Gulf.

A committee from the new local of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union has called upon the Mobile Steamship Owners' Assn. with a request for negotiations leading to a contract which will improve wages, hours and working conditions.

Strike at Atlantic Coast Ports

The strike started Dec. 8 by 400 longshoremen and checkers of the Merchants and Miners company at Boston is one of many along the east coast line. Some 2600 employees are reported on strike at company piers of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Co., located at Providence, R. I., Philadelphia, Baltimore, Norfolk and Newport News, Savannah, Ga., West Palm Beach, Miami and Jacksonville.

Fourteen ships were reported affected. The strike was ordered after company officials reputedly withdrew a compromise offer which workers had voted to accept. Union officials said they sought a 5-cent-per-hour wage increase for straight time and a 7½-cent increase for overtime.

PORTER, traffic representative of the New Orleans Dock Board, addressing a luncheon meeting of the Propeller Club of New Orleans, warned that ratification by Congress of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty and passage of the Pettengill bill would injure the Port of New Orleans. He explained that such a step would divert traffic from New Orleans through the St. Lawrence River and that "the Mississippi River beyond Memphis, as far as New Orleans is concerned, will become nothing but a drainage ditch."

Correction

DandW is informed by Stuart S. Unz, of Unz & Co., New York, that its article on page 21 of the December issue entitled "Mexico to Enforce Metric System Jan. 1," is in error. The story was the result of misinformation and has since been corrected.

Federal approval through President Roosevelt has just been given the $250,000 PWA project for dredging the inshore channel to Port Newark, N. J.

Prominent in the city's arguments for approval of the project was the necessity of a 30-ft. channel to maintain the value of the land now leased by the city to Tidewater Terminals, Inc. The land is army base property for which Newark is paying the government $2,000,000.

Under the project, Newark will receive an outright grant from the government of $112,500, representing 45 per cent of the total. The remaining $137,500 will be a Federal loan.

The project was approved in February by the New Jersey Division of the PWA. Another point emphasized in the drive to secure approval was the $4,000,000 received by the government in customs for 1 yr. at the Port.

Ban on River Pollution Builds Up New Business

A MOVEMENT to stop river pollution forced Peoria liquor distillers to find other uses for their waste products until they have built up a profitable business in by-products.

Before the campaign got under way industrial waste in the river reportedly was equivalent to the sewage volume of a city of 3,000,000 population.

Now the distilleries dry the grain after fermentation and sell it for cattle feed. Prices have ranged from cost, $10 a ton, to as high as $42.

Water products from the distilleries are only about 15 per cent of their former volume. Treatment processes may permit the utilization of 98 per cent of the waste in by-products or leave it harmless to pollute rivers.

Bekins Employee Bonus and Advertising Plan

Milo W. Bekins, president of Bekins Van and Storage Co., distributed a bonus to 260 employees before Christmas. The distribution is based on a profit-sharing plan, and involves employees who have been with the company steadily for 2 yrs. and longer. The amount received is determined on the basis of salary received and length of service with the company.

The company recently announced that more than $100,000 will be spent for advertising in 1938.

Cargo Tonnage at Montreal Expected to Set a Record

CARGO tonnage handled through the port of Montreal 1937 set a new record, exceeding by 500,000 tons the 1936 mark. R. O. Campney, National Harbors Board chairman, said in an interview recently. Tonnage handled last season amounted to 15,538,712, compared with 15,014,284 tons to mid-November. Mr. Campney said there was "definite assurance" the 1937 figure would establish an all-time record of more than 16,000,000 tons.

What Warehousing Affords the Shipper

- 1—Freight can be saved in substantial sums, if shipments are being made LCL from factory, or if a distant warehouse is used.
- 2—Nearness of stocks encourages customers to buy. Manufacturers who force their trade to wait for a week or two lose orders to those who have a convenient supply close at hand.
- 3—Sometimes storage space is scarce at the plant, and stocks can be scattered at strategic spots throughout the country. Often this is cheaper than building or using valuable factory space.
- 4—In the event of fires or strikes at home, stocks in warehouses close to the market make it possible to serve customers without interruption.
- 5—Fire insurance is almost always less in a warehouse than in the factory.
- 6—A uniform manufacturing operation can be carried on throughout the year, on seasonal goods, and stored in warehouses for the sales period. This reduces cost of manufacture as overhead and expense are constant.
- 7—Warehousing is better than consigned stocks because one stock will serve many jobbers, full control of merchandise is always had and no information is disclosed where it should not be.
- 8—Warehouse receipts can be used for financing. This is considered excellent collateral by banks and these assets are separately considered.
- 9—Often goods are damaged in transit. The warehouse carefully checks each incoming lot and includes carrier's inspection report with receipt for claim purposes. The goods always reach the customer in good condition.
- 10—Local traffic matters are studied and freight shipments given best routing. Ordinarily, it is difficult for the most efficient traffic department to know all changes in distant parts of the country.
- 11—The warehouseman will keep you informed of local tax, legislative and labor conditions, which mean real money to the manufacturer.
- 12—Bonded warehouses for every purpose are available, and useful.
- 13—Public warehousing is a tool of commerce that is as beneficial to business as Dun and Bradstreet, transportation agencies, insurance companies, banks and advertising organizations.

Soy Bean Processing on West Coast

ONE of the leading central western organizations handling soy beans, according to the Chicago Journal of Commerce, has petitioned the transcontinental freight bureau to establish a carload rate of 60 cents per 100 lbs. based on minimums of 80,000 lbs. from groups C.
and D. to California.

The sponsoring organization states that a monthly movement of approximately 1,200 tons to San Francisco is contemplated. The present rate on soy beans from group D. to California is 77½ cents on 50,000-lb. carloads and 86½ cents on 40,000-lb. carloads.

It is pointed out that the rail carriers made effective on Oct. 22 last a rate of 60 cents per 100 lbs. minimum of 86,000 lbs. on soy bean meal from Chicago to the Pacific Coast. It is contended that the value of meal is approximately 10 per cent less than that of the beans

Hollywood Storage Petitions in Tax Appeal

Premier Storage, Inc., Hollywood, Cal., has petitioned the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals for redetermination of a deficiency in surtax and income taxes for the year 1934.

The commissioner of internal revenue claims the company should pay the government $7 for income and $348.67 for surtax. However, the storage company contends that the commissioner failed to provide for current year income tax before determining the amount of undistributed profit subject to surtax, in his claim of deficiency.

The case has been filed but due to an overcrowded docket it probably will not be reviewed in the near future.

action against illegal intrastate carriers, it was decided to gather evidence in order to present through the committee of the whole to I.C.C. representatives, a clear picture of the widespread extent to which illegal intrastate operation has been carried on in Pennsylvania. A subcommittee was appointed, with Buell G. Miller, president, Miller North Broad Storage Co., as chairman, to hold a preliminary conference with PUC representatives.

It was brought out that the committee has in hand a suggested re-writing of General Order No. 29, of the Rules and Regulations covering the operations of common carriers, contract carriers, furniture movers and brokers. PUC was presented with this tentative draft by a committee of fifty of the PMTA, representing all classes of carriers throughout Pennsylvania. Mr. Miller is general chairman of this committee, and a committee of five from the PFWA worked with it so the views of the warehouse group would be incorporated in the single draft.

With regard to proposed consideration of Pennsylvania's 44-hr. law, now suspended, the committee is marking time as suits have been entered to test its constitutionality, as mentioned elsewhere.

Dolomite To Build Fleet of Ten Vessels

THE Dolomite Marine Corp. launched a second steel tanker, The Dolomite II, at its shipyard at Pittsford, N. Y., and will immediately enter upon a program calling for the construction of ten vessels involving an outlay of $4,000,000. The Dolomite II is of 1,250 tons and has been chartered for 9 yrs. to operate in the molasses trade from Cuba to New Orleans and oil from Brownsville, Tex., back to Cuba.

Philadelphia Mover Groups in Joint I.C.C. Conference

SUBSEQUENT to a joint meeting of the Philadelphia Chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association; the Certificated Furniture Movers of Pennsylvania, the Tri-State Household Goods Tariff Conference and representatives of independent movers in December, representatives of these groups attended an informal conference before Examiner Snow, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in Philadelphia, to discuss household goods tariffs with special reference to a proper basis for rates, dual tariffs, insurance and certain other charges.

Before assembling at the I.C.C. hearing, the groups mentioned had decided not to present any association, or concerted statement favoring the elimination of duplication of work and for the co-ordination of activities as had previously been considered, but left such action to individual operators, some of whom took advantage of the opportunity.

The conference indicated a decided preference for the weight basis of charges for rates on household goods for all carriers, by I.C.C. order. With regard to a previously proposed plan of starting concerted

South Halts Rate Cut Plea

Unfavorable railroad earnings and the lack of information as to transportation costs have halted the rate plea of the southern governors' freight rate conference which had planned to seek an investigation into the reasonableness of class rates in southern territory.

The rate action was one of two moves affecting rail rate structure; the second, now pending, is a petition looking to drastic rate reductions on manufactured and processed articles moving from the south to the north.

OLDEST IN POINT OF SERVICE

Perform all services of a local branch.

More than 100 motor trucks.
Consign via any R.R.

To be the oldest and the largest means something, of course: But it means even more to be alert and flexible so that adjustments can be made instantly to a client's needs—to be as painstaking with an LCL as with a 20 car shipment—and to exhibit an honest desire to always do more than is expected of us. THIS is our definition of satisfactory service.

Will Appeal "Top Wharfage" Fee Maritime Decision

Dismissal of the complaint by the Port of Philadelphia officials and shippers of that city against alleged excessive charges, known as the "top wharfage fees," imposed by private pier owners, was recommended on Nov. 27 by Robert M. Furniss, U. S. Maritime Commission Examiner, in his report on the case to the Commission, filed in Washington. Examiner Furniss had held hearings in Philadelphia last summer.

Announcement of the examiner's recommendation was received in Philadelphia by G. Coe Farrier, assistant city solicitor, who was in charge of the case, in which the Port of Philadelphia Ocean Traffic Bureau, through its manager, John F. Lent, cooperated.

Mayor Wilson has said that an appeal will be filed, asking the Maritime Commission to reject the examiner's recommendation and report, and that should refusal follow, further appeal would be made to the Federal Court. The issue is over a so-called "top wharfage" charge imposed by three railroads and the operators of another pier on import and export freight moved over these piers by others than the railroads, at the rate of 2.5 cents per 100 lbs., with a minimum of 50 cents for handling a single consignment. The defendants are the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Reading Co., the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and Philadelphia Piers, Inc.

Manager Lent, of the Port of Philadelphia Ocean Traffic Bureau, on Dec. 17 filed exception briefs to the report made by Examiner Furniss. His intention to do so already had been announced. The briefs set forth that the jurisdiction of the Maritime Commission for which Mr. Lent had contended was determined by the examiner in his report, but that the examiner's conclusions respecting the "top wharfage" charge was excepted to.

WEBSTER GROVE

Maplewood Moving Co. (H) 601 E. Lockwood St.

Mr. Lent acts as counsel in this case.

Leading up to the hearings in Philadelphia by Examiner Furniss last summer, port and shipping interests had appealed to the Maritime Commission to take authority on the ground that the Shipping Act was being violated by the defendants and that terms of leases for Government piers were not being observed. Previously, a jurisdictional battle had developed, with Blakely D. McCaughn, director of wharves, docks, and ferries for Philadelphia, issuing an order on Feb. 1, barring collection of the "top wharfage" fee on the ground that the piers in question are under city control.

Judge Robert E. Lamberton, in Common Pleas Court No. 5, sustained the railroads and issued an injunction against McCaughn so that the fees could be collected. Judge Lamberton held that only the Public Service Commission had the right to pass on the railroad charges for truck-hauled goods. Prior to that, the Interstate Commerce Commission had stepped into the jurisdictional fight and ordered cancellation of the "top wharfage" fee. With the question of the fee involved, in actions pending before city, State and Federal bodies, the railroads and piers put into operation the extra 50-cent charge on May 10 and have been making collections, where able to do so, ever since.

Examiner Furniss, in his report to the Maritime Commission, recommends dismissal of the pending complaint, but, according to some parties to the dispute, this still leaves the jurisdictional fight pending before the State commission and in the Courts, on an appeal from McCaughn's original order against the railroads.

Phila. "Top Wharfage" Appeal

Mr. Lent, however, presents the version that in his report, Examiner Furniss sustains the points of law respecting jurisdiction contended for in the Lent brief originally filed. The Lent brief more recently filed, contends that the report of the examiner sets aside the contention of the City of Philadelphia that its department of wharves, docks and ferries has jurisdiction in the case.

Suspends Portion of Pa. Rail Rate Increases

A portion of the increased freight rates recently allowed railroads of Pennsylvania for shipments within the State was suspended by the Public Utility Commission on Dec. 14, for a period of 6 mos. The commission, sitting in Harrisburg, Pa., called off the higher rates that would have become effective on Dec. 20, on shipments of stone, sand, gravel, paving and building brick and other clay products, including sewer pipe.

P.U.C. also ordered an investigation into the fairness of the advanced charges which put up the rates on mentioned commodities 10 per cent and which would have provided the carriers with approximately $750,000 more revenue per year. The rates just suspended were included in an order issued by the commission on Dec. 3, increasing rates on basis commodities, with the exception of anthracite, to conform with a similar increase allowed by I.C.C. for shipments from one State to another.

Joint Rail Exhibit at New York World's Fair

AN international exhibit depicting the progress of rail transport will be presented by the American railroads at the New York World's Fair in 1939. For the first time in their history the railroads of the land are cooperating in setting up a joint exhibit in a great national exposition. It will be constructed under the sponsorship of twenty-six of the Eastern roads, as represented in the Eastern Presidents' Conference.

There will be a comprehensive railroad display, consisting of Railroads on Parade, a large open-air stage-show, together with many appropriate exhibits, both indoors and out. A complete operating railroad system in miniature will also be an outstanding feature of this show.

Sixteen acres of land are to be devoted to the exhibit and pageant. The building will be the largest at the exposition, having 150,000 sq. ft. of floor-space. It will be S-shaped, some 1,400 ft. in length, flanked at the east end by a giant dome, 180 ft. in diameter and approximately 8 stories in height, and terminating in a semi-circular peristyle at the far end of the plot. An amphitheater seating 4,000 is at the far end of the main hall of the building.

Winkler Re-elected

Geo. N. Winkler, president of John Winkler's Sons, Inc., Far Rockaway, N. Y., was re-elected treasurer of the Certified Rug Cleaners Institute at its annual meeting.

H. C. Lee Moves Office

H. C. Lee & Sons Moving and Storage Co. has moved its main office in Toledo, Ohio, to the four-story warehouse on the northwest corner of Superior and Lafayette Sts. The building, the property of the Smith estate and formerly occupied by the Smith Kirk Candy Co., has been renovated.

New Beaumont Port Warehouse

The Port of Beaumont, Texas, started construction Dec. 22 of improvements consisting of a new wharf and shipside warehouse, providing floor space of 62,500 sq. ft., and a new barge wharf and warehouse. The barge warehouse will be 100 by 200 ft. All buildings will be of concrete and steel construction.

The total cost of the project will be $308,786 and construction will be completed in 300 days.

In addition to the above improvements, work has started on Harbor Island to provide levees and spillway to retain the spoil which will be secured from the eastern end of the island by dredging to be done by the U. S. engineers in the near future. Five hundred feet will be cut off the island, enlarging present turning basis. A dredge is now working in Neches River, widening the channel 50 ft. and providing 34 ft. depth.

Dr. Fair Heads Great Lakes Survey

The Federal Communications Commission has designated Dr. Marvin L. Fair, professor of Transportation and Public Utilities at Temple University, Philadelphia, to head the Great Lakes Inland Waters Survey, which is a study to determine the radio and safety requirements necessary or desirable for the protection of life and property on the lakes and inland waterways of the United States.

The appointment, made public by Commissioner Thad H. Brown, is effective Feb. 1, when Dr. Fair will take active charge as research director, when he will take leave of absence from his position at Temple University. The work to be carried on is being conducted pursuant to Public No. 97, 75th Congress, which contained an amendment to Section 602 of the Communication Act of 1934. The survey, together with the legislative recommendations to Congress, must be completed on or before Dec. 31, 1939.

The warehouse company has also made request to drive a number of five-pile clusters at the same site. It is understood that this construction is part of a mechanization program which is to be put into effect at the warehouse which it is reported will include a conveyor system. This would cost $60,000 and would eliminate in part, use of stevedores. The warehouse company is an affiliate of Alexander Sprunt and Sons and of the Cape Fear Shipping Co., both of Wilmington.

Texas Woodpulp

RAIL carriers have been put in line by the I.C.C. to compete for 50,000 tons of woodpulp that will move annually from the new producing plant at Houston, Tex., to Hamilton, Ohio. They have been granted fourth section rate relief.

The I.C.C. has authorized the carriers in fourth section application 16,879 to establish a rate of 30 cents per 100 lb. on woodpulp between the two points, the rate to be applicable on carloads of 80,000 lb. when shipped in cars up to 41 ft. in length and on carloads of 90,000 lb. when shipped in larger cars.

A short time ago the rail carriers established a 30-cent rate as maxima on woodpulp from Houston to Hamilton but decided to seek restoration of rates to intermediate points to the previous basis by securing fourth section authorization which has now been granted.

Water carriers utilizing the intra-coastal canal from Houston, the Mississippi and Ohio rivers to Cincinnati made a rate of 20 cents to handle this woodpulp traffic.

No Colorado Service Tax

District Judge Otto Bock ruled last month that the services performed by a warehouse company are not subject to the Colorado service tax because the services of such companies are not specifically mentioned in the law and are not similar to the services of companies that are mentioned. The ruling was asked by the Johnson Storage & Moving Co., Denver, in a suit against State Treasurer Homer F. Bedford for a declaratory judgment.

Seattle Forms Traffic Bureau

B. M. Patton, Eastern representative of the Port of Seattle announces the formation at Seattle of the Pacific Northwest Research and Traffic Bureau. Complete data concerning foreign trade and commodity traffic will be compiled.

The organization was sponsored by the Port of Seattle and the school of economics and business of the University of Washington, and will be expanded to include representatives of all interests concerned with distribution of products of agriculture, industry and commerce in reaching foreign and domestic markets.

Col. W. C. Bickford, manager of the Port of Seattle, was elected president of the bureau. Supporting officers are Prof. J. E. Gould, executive vice-president, and Dean S. G. Coon, Dr. M. M. Skinner, Smith M. Wilson, Horace P. Chapman, J. A. Earley and Prof. Gould, board of directors.

"Shoppers" Far Different from "Shippers"

The attention of DandW's advertising make-up department has been drawn to a slogan it unwittingly let "go through" in the December advertisement of the National Warehouse Corp., Milwaukee, Wis. This slogan read (Serving the Nation's Leading Shoppers). Obviously, the word "shoppers" and all it implies was not meant; it should have been "shippers."

In Seattle It's EYRES!

For half a century EYRES has served the interests of the great northwest, and its name and fame are known from the mills of Minneapolis and the mines of Montana to the far ports of the world. As a pioneer in Seattle's transfer and storage activities, EYRES has kept pace, step by step, with the city's commercial and industrial growth, and it is not by chance that in its field today it is—*in experience—50 years of dependable service, in facilities—3 fine modern warehouses,

in capacity—220,000 sq. ft. of clean light space,
in truck equipment—49 units in local use,
in personnel—100 bonded employees to do your bidding, in protection—fireproof, sprinklered buildings; ADT (1)
in insurance rates—10.2¢ to 11.9¢, in financial responsibility—Dunn and Bradstreet's rating, in the number and volume of national accounts.*

And not only does EYRES hold U. S. Customs License No. 1, but it has the ONLY U. S. Internal Revenue Bonded Warehouse permit, exclusive of distilleries, in the entire northwest—a double recognition which is as well merited as it is unusual.

Convenient locations, quickly accessible, in Zone 1—Storage—Distribution—Office Space—Display Rooms—Local and Long Distance Hauling—Packing and Shipping—Special Facilities for Special Commodities—Heated Liquor Storage—Bonded and Commercial Bottling—Field Warehousing—Market Information—Sales Helps.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.

A strategic point from which to supply more than 5,000,000 population over night, located in Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia. Can you afford to overlook this?

Huntington is located geographically to serve this vast territory quickly, due to its superior Rail-River-Truck facilities. No patron need be out of your product if sufficient supply be kept at warehouse to care for demand.

If you are not working this territory, we believe it would be money and time well spent investigating its possibilities for your line, and if you are working this territory and will let us know from what point you are serving it, together with size and weight of containers, we will work out a specific plan and submit it to you—this does not obligate you in any way.

Our President, Mr. W. J. Maier, established the first merchandise warehouse in Huntington and no patron has ever lost a penny on any merchandise entrusted to his care in 17 years and which record we are justly proud of. Our clientele numbers among it many of the largest firms of their kind in the United States. There is a reason.

Federal and State Statutes Covering Cold Storage Warehouses

THE refrigerated warehouse companies' Directory listings on the following pages are accompanied, under each State, with considerable information of interest to those shippers who intend using cold storage facilities.

As far as known, the laws governing storage of perishable products in cold storage warehouses remains practically the same as in 1937, although, as related further on herewith, certain States were preparing in 1937 to bring about enactment of a uniform law that would bring about more sensible cold storage regulations.

The development of the frozen-food industry and the more widespread use of cold storage facilities for its products, will, it is expected, bring about an extension of the time limits for storing. Quick-frozen products in most cases can be kept indefinitely in storage under proper conditions. The laws should be changed in recognition of this fact.

Under the Federal Uniform Cold Storage Act, cold storage food covers fresh meat products (except in process of manufacture), fresh fish, game, poultry, eggs and butter. Upper limit of temperature for cold storage under the Uniform Act is 45° F. Reports of holdings are required monthly. Time limit for storage is 12 months; this may be extended but not longer than 120 days. Marking data required are dates of receipt and withdrawal. Dealers must display a placard "Cold-storage goods" on the foods. Condemnation, though not covered specifically in the Act, is implied in supervision and inspection.

Up to 1910 no State had adopted a cold storage law except that three years earlier Kansas had enacted one to the extent of forbidding sale of "undrawn refrigerated poultry." By the close of 1911 five States (California, Delaware, Indiana, New Jersey, New York) had enacted such statutes of one sort or another. Several of these early laws proved to be unreasonable and impossible of enforcement. Drastic provisions have, across the ensuing years, been repealed or revised.

To a large extent many provisions of today's cold storage laws are "dead." This applies especially to display of placards by retailers—the labeling "as such" of cold storage food before the consumer's eye.

The cold storage operators themselves abide by the law. Removal of tags and tampering with marks are violations by owners of goods—not by warehousemen. To this end the industry exerts pressure on State Legislatures for repeal of impractical laws; and, when new proposals are made, for enactment only of what may reasonably be enforced and what is constructively good for pure food and sanitation. The industry knows, better than does incoherent public opinion, the futility of senseless law-making.

There is hope that better legislation lies ahead. Early misguided prejudices are filtering out. Unceasing efforts by the industry for fair play are yielding results.

Illustrating the benefits of common sense and education was a meeting, last May at Boise, Idaho, of warehousemen and officials of Oregon, Washington, Montana, Utah and Idaho—the group being known as the Interstate Warehouse Committee. This group devoted two days to writing a uniform warehouse law such as would be workable in the Pacific Northwest. The intention was to secure enactment early in 1937, by the States named, of this uniform bill—not to apply, however, to cold storage but to such semi-perishables as beans, peas, seeds, wool, hay.

This is a far cry from an attempt by each State to enact a law for itself alone, trying always to set in the law a few more teeth than neighboring States had thought of.

Scientific methods each year are spreading. Cold storage goods are being delivered from storage more appetizing and wholesome today than ever before. The laboratories of the Chicago meat packers and the Department of Agriculture are perfecting new technique of drawing poultry, paraffining cheese, producing infertile eggs, packing apples and other deciduous fruits, devising new containers—in short, doing a hundred things all for the purpose of setting better-conditioned food on the American table.

As science perfects, State laws will be liberalized through elimination of restrictions which will no longer be necessary.

the antiquated storage-time restriction so as to give wider scope to the storage potentialities so earnestly desired by this comparatively new industry.

The cold storage industry as a whole or through its State divisions has a real opportunity to benefit by sponsoring legislative changes in the State and Federal laws to make this cold storage restriction more liberal.

Cold Storage Life of Pear...

LIFE BEGINS at a certain temperature for the pear. Susceptible to temperatures, both warm and cold, is the delicate and tasty pear—a favorite in cold storage circles of the West, where it needs just the right amount of scientific cold storage treatment or all may be lost.

Its cold storage treatment, to be most effective, must take into consideration maturity, ripening, and timing. The latter is most important—for there is, most insistently, a right time for storage in cold houses, according to expert advice recently given to pear growers, shippers and cold storage men of the great pear state of Washington by Henry Hartman, pear expert and horticulturist, who has engaged in considerable research into cold storage preservation.

Mr. Hartman pointed out the right ripening times essential for an adequate cold storage job—since under certain circumstances cold storage cannot be effective. Moreover, he asserted that pears stored at temperatures ranging from 36 degrees to 45 degrees will not ripen even after they are brought to warmer ripening temperatures. Too often such degrees are not taken into consideration, with resulting loss.

Another striking statement of Mr. Hartman was that "Pears That Are Left in the Orchard or Unpacked for Between 4 to 6 Warm Days Have Little or NO Cold Storage Value. Pears have definite cold storage lives, and if held too long will not ripen even if brought to warmer temperature."

Furthermore, 65 per cent is the most satisfactory ripening temperature for fruit out of storage, Mr. Hartman set forth to the pear and fruit men at their recent annual convention at Wenatchee, Wash., in the center of the fruit-raising district of the Pacific Northwest.

In his talk to the fruit folk, Mr. Hartman commented that "We must consider varieties from a storage standpoint as follows: Bartlett, 40 days; Bosc, —Christmas holidays; Flemish Beauty, Thanksgiving holidays; Comice, the last of January; Anjou, April 15th, and Winter Nellis, May to June 1st.

His studies in fruit preservation have revealed the cold storage possibilities as well as cold storage limitations, of what is most important in the cold storage life of the pear.

THE canal system in 1920 carried a tonnage of 1,420,000 tons. By 1929 tonnage had doubled to 2,876,000 tons. In 1936, the canal carried 5,014,000 tons, again practically doubling its traffic during 7 yrs. of depression, while most other transportation agencies were losing great percentages of their tonnage. 1937 figures are not available but this constantly increasing record of traffic is a justification for the expenditure of public funds now under way.

Methods Used for Quick-Freezing

In the December issue of DandW, there was a report of a new plant to be opened in January for quick-freezing foods. It should be pointed out, in respect to this report, that the methods used for quick-freezing by various companies differ greatly. The process used for quick-freezing Birds Eye Frosted Foods is a patented process used exclusively in quick-freezing that brand. The processes used for the quick-freezing of Honor Brand, Booth Fisheries and others are different in many respects. It might be pointed out also that the production of Birds Eye Frosted Foods is controlled by the Frosted Foods Sales Corp., starting from the planting and right down through the growing, harvesting, packaging, and finally the quick-freezing.

National Warehouse Solves A Problem

AN ingenious arrangement of fans, producing a constant circulation of air in a room located some 10 ft. below the street level, has been found highly satisfactory for the storage of semi-perishable products at the National Warehouse Corp. building in Milwaukee, Wis. In this room, having a floorspace of 10,000 sq. ft., are stored prunes, raisins, black figs, molasses, nuts (shelled and in the shell, and a variety of dried fruits such as peaches, apricots, and apples, and have been kept for a considerable length of time in excellent condition and to the entire satisfaction of those using these facilities.

The products mentioned are stored the year around, eliminating any necessity of transfer to cold storage during the summer periods. A slight variation in temperature is maintained without the need of air conditioning equipment. A 30-in. fan, located at one end of the room, and a smaller one at the opposite end, keeps the air in constant circulation. The room is dry and the temperature averages some 30 deg. lower than the average outside temperature. When the thermometer registers 90 deg. outside it is 60 deg. in the semi-perishable room below street level.

Two chutes, one at each end, discharge directly into the room from rail sidings leading off the main line of the Chicago and North Western. The room is also served by two 6,000-lb. capacity freight elevators which discharge on the ground level close to the private trucking docks.

Woodpulp Rate Increase Stands

THE maritime commission Dec. 15 refused to suspend the proposed increased rate on woodpulp, eastbound, which was under protest by shippers. The increase is from 32½ cents to 35 cents per 100 lbs. on carload lots of which the density does not exceed 50 cu. ft. per ton moving from Pacific to Atlantic ports. The new rate became effective Dec. 17.

Central Cold Storage's 1937 Earnings Show 20% Gain

Earnings of the Central Cold Storage Co., Chicago, for 1937 are estimated at $1.50 per share. The forecast is based on the concern's policy, evidenced in the two preceding years, of distributing practically all of net income to stockholders. Dividend payments during 1937 totaled $1.50 a share.

Estimated earnings per share on the 95,000 shares of stock outstanding indicate a net income of $142,500 or 20 per cent larger than the $118,881 for 1936. The 1937 estimate is 50 per cent greater than the $95,652 or $1.01 a share 1935 net income.

Canada to Act on Federal Control & Warehouse Receipts

CANADA has two important warehousing and distribution matters to dispose of this year: first, to bring all transportation under federal jurisdiction; and second, to enact a uniform warehouse receipt act, long sponsored by the Canadian Storage & Transfermen's Assn.

At present all rail, highway, waterway and air transportation are under one government ministry. The enabling legislation sought is known by its short title, "The Transport Act." This was given its first reading Feb. 2, 1937, in the Canadian parliament, and will come up for its second and final reading in the 1938 session of the House at Ottawa.

Sir Edward Beatty, president and chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently referred to the serious competition facing the railways of Canada from other forms of transportation and paid a tribute to the Minister of Transport in his effort during the last session of parliament to obtain legislation providing for public utility control for highway and waterway transport.

"Bill B," as the enabling legislation is known, not only is designed to control water, air and highway transport through licensing and prescribed regulations governing routes, rates, types of equipment, schedules, etc., on inter-province operations, but control over and licensing of brokers as well. The bill aims to eliminate "chiselling" in all forms. All licenses granted will be operative for 1 yr. or for such other period as may be prescribed.

Regulations concerning the type of vehicles to be used will be set up. Hours of labor will be established.

Agreed-upon transportation charges between carrier and shipper will have to obtain the approval of the authorities and be lodged within 7 days after the date of such agreement.

"Bill B" aims to bring in line unregulated chisellers using obsolete equipment, who work all hours of the day and night, storing goods in sheds and basements and starting rural routes where they are not required.

Despite its aims, however, "Bill B" has met with some criticism. The thought is that quite a few can see no way out for equalizing competition in transportation or for the establishment of a yardstick in rates, wages, etc., that can be applied with any real success. The transportation factors are so unequal as to make this impossible, say the critics. The question is, can a board of a few men be expected to thoroughly grasp all the ramifications of the activities governed by the bill.

WAREHOUSING AN INDISPENSABLE LINK IN THE CHAIN OF DISTRIBUTION

prompt and accurate deliveries, to readily ascertain when any particular commodity is running low, to keep shippers fully advised of the condition of stock and to make the usual periodical physical inventories with dispatch and accuracy. There are many shippers doing business from Coast to Coast who have long since recognized the importance of passing on to the warehousemen every detail to insure the accurate handling of their goods by the warehouseman as well as the local merchant.

Another thing, the shipper should give careful consideration to the selection of his warehouse, bearing in mind the fact that it is just as important to place his goods under the protection of a responsible, capable and reliable warehouseman as it is to place his funds in a bank with a recognized standing conducting its affairs on a safe and sound basis for a warehouse is more than is implied in the common application of the word—a place to store goods. More often it is the safe keeping of personal property or merchandise. Shippers have a right to carefully weigh the claims of the warehouseman, make an investigation as to his reputation, ascertain whether or not he is affiliated with his own trade association, which is of recognized standards fostered by those engaged in a similar line of business.
